Preliminary Work On Harbor To Be Started Tuesday

SURVEY WILL BE LAUNCHED BY ENGINEERS

Expect Actual Work on Jet-ties Will Get Underway March 1 if Plans Carry

QUICK ACTION SEEN

All Preparations Will Be Rushed Preliminary to Allocation of Funds

WORK WILL START next Tuesday on a preliminary survey of the jetties at Newport Harbor as the first step in preparing to call for bids on the development project approved Tuesday by the voters, according to Col. Virgil L. Peterson, federal district engineer of Southern California who will be in charge of the project. It is expected that actual work on extension of the jetties will get under way by March 1 if all plans go through as scheduled.

Colonel Peterson said this morning that his office will have everything in readiness to start work immediately after word is received from Washington D. C. that funds are allocated and available. The survey to start Tuesday will be for determination of the exact amount of material required in extending the west jetty 760 feet and the east jetty 920 feet.

Prepare Plans

While the survey is scheduled to start next Tuesday and will probably require a week to complete, the preparation of plans and specifications for other phases of the work is under way at present. Aside from the determination of the amount of material needed on the jetties the majority of specifications can be taken from plans and specifications prepared by City Engineer R. L. Patterson of Newport Beach, Peterson said. These plans were the ones used in Washington D. C. to secure promise of government co-operation up to 50 per cent of the cost of the job. This government assistance will come from the Rivers and Harbors budget and will designate the harbor improvement as a federal project.

Colonel Peterson said this morning that his office would have everything ready so that there would be no delay when formal notification of the allocation of funds and acceptance of the bonds, voted Tuesday, is received from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

WOMEN ENDURANCE FLIERS FLY IN FOG

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Mrs. Frances Harrell, New York and Miss Helen Ritchie, Pittsburgh, landed their airplane "Outdoor 21" over Miami today after completing their first night in a second attempt to break the world's record endurance refueling flight or women.

The fliers had been in the air since 1:03 p. m. yesterday. The first mid-air refueling was successful at 6 p. m. and a second was made shortly after dawn today.

The refueling plane carried orange juice, cereals and coffee to the "flying boudoir." A hazy fog partly obstructed vision. No message had been received from the fliers.

Bride 82, and Groom 32, On Honeymoon

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(UP)—An European honeymoon was planned today by Angelo Cebello, 32, and his 82-year-old bride, the former Mrs. Blanche La Blanc. Scoffing at the differences in ages, the couple was married following a short romance.

"It was one of those whirlwind courtships in which he swept me off my feet," laughed the octogenarian bride. It was her second trip to the altar and Cebello's first.

AIMEE SEEKS DIVORCE FROM DAVID HUTTON

Suit Filed in Los Angeles Shortly Before Return From East Tuesday

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(UP)—A primrose path lined with pretty chorus girls who caressed and kissed her errant husband was described today by Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton as grounds for divorce from portly David L. Hutton Jr.

Striking back at her husband, who instituted divorce proceedings last summer, the evangelist accused him of cruelty in moving to bring to an end their two-year-old romance in a counter-suit.

The counter-suit was filed only a few hours before she returned home from a nation-wide evangelistic and vaudeville tour. A thunderous ovation greeted her as she stepped from the train into the arms of 4000 followers. Dressed entirely in white, she displayed a gay mood to the crowd that shouted a chorus of "hallojahs."

Charges Filed

Hutton, whose recent return from a vaudeville tour was in sharp contrast to that extended by her estranged wife, was accused in the cross-complaint of stooping to "cheap" publicity stunts in furthering his stage career. He allowed himself to be photographed with "scantily-dressed girls whom he permitted to caress and kiss him" in "utter disregard to the marital status of the parties, and disclosing a marked attitude of indifference toward her (his wife's) ideals, wishes and desires," according to the complaint.

Now Entertains

Hutton's "career" at present has been reduced from that of a vaudeville headliner to that of an entertainer at a small local night club.

LIVERMORE RETURNS TO NEW YORK HOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Jesse L. Livermore, spectacular stock market plunger, was in a New York hotel room during the 24 hours police listed him as a missing person, a small army of city and Federal detectives, who had combed the metropolitan district for some clue to his "abductors," learned as they returned to their posts today.

Livermore returned to his luxurious Park avenue apartment late yesterday and to his third wife, who had reported him missing and who had grown more distraught as the passing hours indicated he might have been the victim of foul play. He explained that for the past 24 hours his mind had been a blank. He came to himself in a room in a mid-town hotel, saw a newspaper with his name coupled with the word "kidnap" in large type, and rushed home.

Sixteen Arrested as Spies Are Formally Charged With Espionage

PARIS, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Poring over an astonishing assortment of secret documents, police believed today they had broken the French segment of an espionage organization whose operations extended to the United States and Japan.

Robert Gordon Switz, 29, of East Orange, N. J., was alleged to be chief of the Paris group specializing in air corps and army information. Mysterious "Mme. Stahl," 48-year-old Russian, they charged, specialized in naval information, with Louis Martin, French government translator, her principal assistant.

Switz and Mme. Stahl, they said, were linked by the slender thread of a postcard the Russian woman sent the young American. Switz and Mme. Stahl received voluminous mail from the United States every line. Japanese frequently visited Mme. Stahl, they said. Switz was held by police to have had an espionage sideline in economic data, particularly concerning the silk industry.

Charge d'Affaires Theodore Mariner of the American embassy consulted embassy experts regarding possible action to be taken to guard the interests of Switz and his 22-year-old bride, the former Marjorie Tilley of New York.

Neither had asked the embassy for aid. The state department cabled the embassy for a full report, incidentally seeking information of possible activities of the spy syndicate in the United States. French newspapers said that Mme. Stahl, whose Christian name was listed as Lydia, was married to an American. There was no record of her at the American consulate. She had used the alias of Lydia Tchekeloff.

FEDERAL PRICE OF GOLD IS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—The government held its domestic gold buying rate unchanged at $34.06 per ounce today for the fourth successive day in the face of weakness in stock and commodity prices and prospects of more active congressional demands for inflation.

Despite the retention of the $34.06 rate it was understood the government seriously was considering a more aggressive price boosting program to strengthen the security and commodity markets if they show further losses.

The price was $1.97 above the world price set in London today at 126 shillings 2 pence, of 7 pence from yesterday. Based on the opening exchange rate for the pound sterling $5.05 3/4, this was equal to $32.09 an ounce.

The dollar remained unchanged at 60.65 cents in gold.

SIR HENRY DICKENS PASSES IN LONDON

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Sir Henry Dickens, 84, only surviving son of the novelist, died at St. Luke's hospital today.

He succumbed to injuries received Saturday when he was knocked down by a motorcycle on the Chelsea embankment.

He died in the small, dingy municipal charitable hospital, formerly the Chelsea workhouse infirmary. He was taken there from the scene of the accident because it was nearby.

The hospital is directly opposite St. Luke's church, where Charles Dickens was married in 1836.

PRESIDENT URGED TO EXEMPT BUSINESS MAN FROM PAYMENT OF SURTAX AS RECOVERY ACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Exemption of the business man from surtax payments for certain lines of endeavor would result in work for 3,000,000 men and women, Roger Babson, noted economist, told President Roosevelt today.

Explaining that business in general was showing a healthy tone, Babson submitted to the president a three-point program designed to stimulate initiative in industry. It called for exemption of surtax payments for the following:

1. Money spent in increasing the sales of agricultural products.
2. Money spent on building homes not exceeding $10,000 in value.
3. Money advanced to meet industrial payrolls when banks turn down loans for payrolls.

"The dropping off of this surtax," Babson said, "would mean that it would cost the government about $100,000,000 in revenue but for every dollar lost in taxes, there would be an increase in business 100 per cent."

He argued that every dollar put into surtaxes means that much less for the business man to carry on worth while experiments, with He added, however, that he would not expand along the lines in which there already is adequate method but only those who take risks "to increase the business of the United States."

Purchasers of bonds, for example, he would have taxed.

Discussing business generally, he said:

"I think the business outlook is all right if they (meaning the government) just let the experiments grow without starting more. Washington has supplied the 'water' for the crops. Now what is needed is a little sunshine."

DR. LOWELL OF HARVARD TURNS DOWN U. S. POST FOR PRESIDENT

Declines to Accept Place on Motion Picture Code Authority Learned

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard, has informed the NRA that he would prefer not to serve as presidential member of the motion picture code authority, it was learned today.

It was indicated that both President Roosevelt and Administrator Hugh Johnson were making efforts to have Dr. Lowell reconsider his decision.

Dr. Lowell notified Johnson in a letter that he would prefer not to serve because he considered the position as only an honorary one in which he would be able to accomplish little.

He referred particularly to the fact that presidential appointees to the code authority do not have a vote in the authority's deliberations.

Johnson has written Dr. Lowell in return and is awaiting a reply. The administration pointed out the duties of the authority and ways in which presidential appointees could exercise a real influence in the motion picture industry.

Dr. Lowell was appointed to supervise particularly operation of the code as it referred to maintenance of high moral standards both in motion pictures themselves and in the advertising which they presented to the public.

The NRA is working on methods of making this provision more effective and Dr. Lowell had been counted upon to aid in this work. NRA officials said they were hopeful that Dr. Lowell would reconsider his position and consent to serve.

STATE EXPENSES IN FISCAL YEAR LOWER

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—California spent $123,239,812.50 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, for expenses of state government, a decrease of $8,869,655.43 from the previous year, State Controller Ray L. Riley reported today.

The saving in 1933 was the first reduction shown since annual statements were initiated in 1924. Riley said a decrease of $6,000,000 in state highway expenditures because of uncertainty of legislative and initiative action, a drop in general building construction and other capital outlay, and a decrease in expenditures of self-supporting agencies because of lowered incomes was largely responsible for the general reduction in governmental expenses.

Pay Day In County Will Be Advanced

Checks to Be Distributed Saturday Morning and Will Aid Business

A $50,000 Christmas present in the form of a payroll moved up to next Saturday from next Wednesday following decision of the Orange county Civil Works Administration committee to provide the 2600 men and women employed under the CWA program with holiday funds, was announced today.

The money will represent payment of wages for the week plus additional time made up during this week for time lost last week because of the rains. It was announced by B. V. Curry, acting director.

In preparing the payroll ahead of time the accounting department and office personnel of the CWA worked additional hours getting time sheets checked and checks prepared.

Curry said that the first full weekly payroll paid under CWA approximated $43,000. The increase to more than $50,000 in pay checks to be distributed Saturday morning was due to the recent rain which caused cessation of all activities on CWA projects for some time. During the past week men on all projects were worked additional hours to make up for time lost during the rain.

Aid to Business

Distribution of this amount of money on the Saturday before Christmas is expected to pour an additional stream of Christmas shopping into all stores of the county as the money is divided among all communities and unincorporated areas on the basis of population.

Along with the paychecks this week each employee will receive a letter calling attention to the program for spreading employment sponsored by the government and asking co-operation on the part of all workers. The letter was prompted by the fact that the CWA committee has received reports that men working on CWA projects for 30 hours each week are seeking outside employment for their free time.

PRISONER REMOVED TO AVOID VIOLENCE

MODesto, Calif., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Veiled threats of mob violence echoed here today as John Semone, 47, McHenry road vineyardist, was held on murder charges in an unannounced jail outside the county.

Semone was removed quietly from the Stanislaus county jail here following death of Hiram E. Cornwell, 61, north Modesto rancher, who succumbed to head wounds assertedly inflicted by Semone when Cornwell trespassed on his ranch while hunting quail.

Cornwell died without regaining consciousness. A hunting companion, however, reportedly told authorities Semone fired without justification.

FOURTH STORM OF MONTH IN OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 21.—Death and destruction today lay in the wake of the fourth severe storm of the month in the Pacific northwest.

The wind reached a velocity of more than 60 miles an hour in sweeping across the Oregon and Washington coast. Storm warnings were posted.

S. Silvertown, Portland, was drowned when he fell from a dredge at Astoria during the storm. Chris Aschenbrenner, Portland, was killed when a slide at Snoqualmie pass engulfed his automobile.

High tides broke dikes near Astoria and engulfed the seacoast Lowlands. Rivers were reported rising in the coastal area.

GEORGE CREEL ACTS TO AVERT STRIKES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—George Creel, national labor board representative, was "satisfied" today that threatened strikes among automobile ferry operators and longshoremen would be averted by arbitration.

Creel believed that a settlement was "imminent" in the dispute between the Southern Pacific-Golden Gate Ferries Co. and its workmen over continuance of a 10 per cent wage cut. He said that the longshoremen disagreement with shipowners awaited only "satisfactory arrangements for arbitration."

New Kind Of Santa Claus Doesn't Give

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—(INS)—Wearing a Santa Claus mask and with the statement "I'm Santa Claus—a new kind, I'm taking instead of giving," a bandit today held up and robbed Mrs. John Fisher of a $1000 diamond ring and some cash.

The bandit fled—after wishing his victim "A very merry Christmas."

AGREEMENT ON LIQUOR TAXES EXPECTED SOON

Bill Not to Be Made Party Issue, According to Republican Leaders

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Republican house leaders today refused to make a party issue out of the liquor tax bill controversy, practically assuring introduction of a bill calling for a whisky tax of approximately $2.20 a gallon and a plan for sharing revenues with states.

The decision was reached at a conference between Minority Leader Snell and Rep. Bacharach, Republican, N. J., of the house ways and means committee.

Chairman Doughton of the committee still hoped to reach complete agreement on a tentative draft of the bill by Saturday night, despite planned Christmas departures from Washington of majority members.

The main points at issue are the size of the whisky tax and the feasibility of a liquor sharing plan. In addition the committee is expected to write into the bill a provision for a general beer tax of 55 a barrel, a section authorizing the president to pursue a liquor trade-bargaining policy, and a provision for higher taxes on blended whiskies.

Although Speaker of the House Rainey has opposed a provision in the bill for doubling liquor import duties from debt defaulting nations, several Democratic members said they would vote for such action. It was first proposed by Rep. Knutson, Repn. Minn., who is drafting a bill which would triple import duties on all articles from defaulting nations which are in arrears 25 per cent or more on war debt payments. Great Britain and several other nations, because of token payments would not be affected.

SUICIDE GUARD IN WATCH OVER SLAYER

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—A "suicide guard" stood watch today over Umberto Guisti, 35-year-old Italian who was charged formally with first degree murder in the slaying of his singer-sweetheart on the eve of her departure for a Metropolitan Grand Opera company tryout.

San Mateo county officials feared that Guisti would harm himself in his grief over the death of Emilia Da Prato, 26, talented South San Francisco "songbird." They placed three other prisoners in the man's cell.

Guisti did not learn of his sweetheart's death until just before he was taken secretly before a justice of peace for arraignment.

WOODIN REPORTED SLIGHTLY BETTER

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Condition of William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, confined to the Desert sanatorium here for nearly a week with a throat ailment, was reported unchanged today.

"Secretary Woodin had a restful night and he is maintaining a slight improved condition of yesterday," his physician said. Woodin was removed to the sanatorium last Saturday from the home of his son, William H. Woodin Jr., when he suffered a recurrence of the ailment which caused his temporary retirement from official life in Washington several weeks ago.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—A .32-caliber revolver found in a duck pond near Oxnard was to be examined today by Pasadena police on the theory it may have been used in the puzzling murder of Dr. Leonard Siever, a locally prominent dentist.

The gun was described as new and devoid of any traces of rust, indicating it could not have remained long in the water.

Miss Eleanor Johnson, Hollywood screen extra, was questioned by investigators concerning a proposal she had received from the amorous dentist. Miss Johnson said she rejected his offer of marriage and had not seen him for more than a month.

SPEAKER OF HOUSE PUTS OUT FEELER

Rainey Asks Remonetization of Silver; Thomas For General Sales Tax

OUTCOME IN DISPUTE

Believed Rainey's Plan May Be Sentiment of Administration as Solution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Outcome of the currency inflation dispute impending in congress appeared today to depend upon the reaction to surprise programs proposed last night by Speaker Rainey and Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma. Both spoke in New York.

Rainey asked for remonetization of silver. Thomas tempted conservatives of both parties with a promise to support a general sales tax in exchange for votes to expand the currency.

The Capitol was slow to accept Speaker Rainey's ideas as categorically representative of administrative sentiment. But the belief spread on Capitol Hill that the least President Roosevelt could do this winter to ward off an inflation rebellion in congress would be to give some recognition to silver as money.

Administration acceptance of the Rainey plan would divide the silver bloc in congress. It would satisfy all but the comparatively few who insist that silver must be remonetized on a fixed ratio with gold—preferably 16 to 1.

The satisfied members of the silver bloc would withdraw from the rebel group, which is threatening to compel Mr. Roosevelt to expand the currency. Without the votes represented by that group the currency expansionists would be impotent except as hecklers. They could not legislate.

It is, in fact, doubtful whether the currency expansion phalanx could muster a two-thirds veto

Pay Day In County Will Be Advanced

Checks to Be Distributed Saturday Morning and Will Aid Business

A $50,000 Christmas present in the form of a payroll moved up to next Saturday from next Wednesday following decision of the Orange County Civil Works Administration committee to provide the 2600 men and women employed under the CWA program with holiday funds, was announced today.

The money will represent payment of wages for the week plus additional time made up during this week for time lost last week because of the rain. It was announced by B. V. Curry, acting director.

In preparing the payroll ahead of time the accounting department and office personnel of the CWA worked additional hours getting time sheets checked and checks prepared.

Curry said that the first full weekly payroll paid under CWA approximated $48,000. The increase to more than $50,000 in pay checks to be distributed Saturday morning was due to the recent rain which caused cessation of all activities on CWA projects for some time. During the past week men on all projects were worked additional hours to make up for time lost during the rain.

Aid to Business

Distribution of this amount of money on the Saturday before Christmas is expected to pour an additional stream of Christmas shopping into all stores of the county as the money is divided among all communities and unincorporated areas on the basis of population.

Along with the paychecks this week each employee will receive a letter calling attention to the program for spreading employment sponsored by the government and asking co-operation on the part of all workers. The letter was prompted by the fact that the CWA committee has received reports that men working on CWA projects for 30 hours each week are seeking outside employment for their free time.

FOURTH STORM OF MONTH IN OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 21.—Death and destruction today lay in the wake of the fourth severe storm of the month in the Pacific northwest.

The wind reached a velocity of more than 70 miles an hour in sweeping across the Oregon and Washington coast. Storm warnings were posted.

S. Silvestro, Portland, was drowned when he fell from a derrick at Astoria during the storm. Chris Aschenbrenner, Portland, was killed when a slide at Snoqualmie pass engulfed his automobile.

High tides broke dikes near Astoria and engulfed the seacoast Lowlands. Rivers were reported rising in the coastal area.

GEORGE CREEL ACTS TO AVERT STRIKES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—George Creel, national labor board representative, was "satisfied" today that threatened strikes among automobile ferry operators and longshoremen would be averted by arbitration.

Creel believed that a settlement was "imminent" in the dispute between the Southern Pacific-Golden Gate Ferry Co. and its workmen over continuance of a 10 per cent wage cut. He said that the longshoremen disagreement with shipowners awaited only "satisfactory arrangements for arbitration."

New Kind Of Santa Claus Doesn't Give

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—(INS)—Wearing a Santa Claus mask, and with the statement "I'm Santa Claus—a new kind, I'm taking instead of giving," a bandit today held up and robbed Mrs. John Fisher of a $1000 diamond ring and some cash. The bandit fled—after wishing his victim "A very merry Christmas."

AGREEMENT ON LIQUOR TAXES EXPECTED SOON

Bill Not to Be Made Party Issue, According to Republican Leaders

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Republican house leaders today refused to make a party issue out of the liquor tax bill controversy, practically assuring introduction of a bill calling for a whisky tax of approximately $2.20 a gallon and a plan for sharing revenues with states.

The decision was reached at a conference between Minority Leader Snell and Rep. Bacharach, Republican, N. J., of the house ways and means committee.

Chairman Doughton of the committee still hoped to reach complete agreement on a tentative draft of the bill by Saturday night, despite planned Christmas departures from Washington of majority members.

The main points at issue are the size of the whisky tax and the feasibility of a liquor sharing plan. In addition the committee is expected to write into the bill a provision for a general beer tax of 25 a barrel, a section authorizing the president to pursue a liquor trade-bargaining policy, and a provision for higher taxes on blended whiskies.

Although Speaker of the House Rainey has opposed a provision in the bill for doubling liquor import duties from debt defaulting nations, several Democratic members said they would vote for such action. It was first proposed by Rep. Knutson, Rpn., Minn., who is drafting a bill which would triple import duties on all articles from defaulting nations which are in arrears 25 per cent or more on war debt payments. Great Britain and several other nations, because of token payments would not be affected.

WOODIN REPORTED SLIGHTLY BETTER

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Condition of William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, confined to the Desert sanatorium here for nearly a week with a throat ailment, was reported unchanged today.

"Secretary Woodin had a restful night and he is maintaining a slight improvement in condition yesterday," his physician said.

Woodin was removed to the sanatorium last Saturday from the home of his son, William H. Woodin Jr., when he suffered a recurrence of the ailment which caused his temporary retirement from official life in Washington several weeks ago.

POLICE TO EXAMINE GUN IN SIEVER CASE

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—A 32-caliber revolver found in a duck pond near Oxnard was to be examined today by Pasadena police on the theory it may have been used in the puzzling murder of Dr. Leonard Siever, socially prominent dentist. The gun was described as new and devoid of any traces of rust, indicating it could not have remained long in the water.

Miss Eleanor Johnson, Hollywood scene extra, was questioned by investigators concerning a proposal she had received from the amorous dentist. Miss Johnson said she rejected his offer of marriage and had not seen him for more than a month.

SPEAKER OF HOUSE PUTS OUT FEELER

Rainey Asks Remonetization of Silver; Thomas For General Sales Tax

OUTCOME IN DISPUTE

Believed Rainey's Plan May Be Sentiment of Administration as Solution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Outcome of the currency inflation dispute impending in congress appeared today to depend upon the reaction to surprise programs proposed last night by Speaker Rainey and Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma. Both spoke in New York.

Rainey asked for remonetization of silver. Thomas tempted conservatives of both parties with a promise to support a general sales tax in exchange for votes to expand the currency.

The Capitol was slow to accept Speaker Rainey's ideas as categorically representative of administrative sentiment. But the belief spread on Capitol Hill that the least President Roosevelt could do this winter to ward off an inflation rebellion in congress would be to give some recognition to silver as money.

Administration acceptance of the Rainey plan would divide the silver bloc in congress. It would satisfy all but the comparatively few who insist that silver must be remonetized on a fixed ratio with gold—preferably 16 to 1.

The satisfied members of the silver bloc would withdraw from the rebel group, which is threatening to compel Mr. Roosevelt to expand the currency. Without the votes represented by that group the currency expansionists would be impotent except as hecklers. They could not legislate.

It is, in fact, doubtful whether the currency expansion phalanx could muster a two-thirds veto

SUICIDE GUARD IN WATCH OVER SLAYER

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—A "suicide guard" stood watch today over Umberto Guisti, 35-year-old Italian who was charged formally with first degree murder in the slaying of his singer-sweetheart on the eve of her departure for a Metropolitan Grand Opera company tryout.

San Mateo county officials feared that Guisti would harm himself in his grief over the death of Emilia Da Prato, 26, talented South San Francisco "songbird." They placed three other prisoners in the man's cell.

Guisti did not learn of his sweetheart's death until just before he was taken secretly before a justice of peace for arraignment.

Government To Locate Airport South Of Santa Ana

EXPECT $15,000 FUND FOR USE ON NEW FIELD

Orange county today was assured of having a 100-acre government airport, following the assurance given by government officials that a fund of $15,000 would be given to the county outright by the government for construction work and development of the airport.

This word was received by Dale Decker, chairman of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, who has been instrumental in securing the airport for the county.

The airport will be located off of South Main street, about a half mile southeast of the Eddie Martin Airport. This land already belongs to the county and will be developed as an airport with the government money.

The project will be undertaken under the program launched by the government to establish 2000 new airports throughout the United States. Plans for hangars, runways, etc., now are being prepared by Nat H. Neff, county engineer, who will submit the completed project to the state of California, for approval.

Decker announced today the appointment of Stanley Clem and Bob Jeffrey to assist him on the committee work.

When completed, about 50 airplanes can be accommodated at the new Orange County Airport, as it will be called, Decker said. The field will be modern with a diagonal runway 3000 feet long and 200 feet wide to make it possible to fly regardless of weather conditions. The field will be lighted, a government beacon will be installed and it is possible that government weather bureau services will be available, Decker said.

HOOVER NOT TO BE CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

with Former Senator Edge, Republican, N. J., Senator Reed, Republican, Pa., Senator Walcott, Republican, Conn., and former Senator Sackett, Republican, Ky. McNary also has conferred with Former Secretary of Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

Reed, Edge and Mills have conferred with Mr. Hoover in recent months and were able to bring to the party conference his counsel that the organized Republican minorities in congress refrain in the early months of the approaching session from concerted attack on administration policies.

Hoover's suggestion was that administration policies be permitted to develop in the expectation that they will reveal economic fallacies against which concerted attack may be made at an appropriate subsequent time.

Individual Republicans in house and senate will be at liberty, however, to pound against the administration on any issue they may select. Republican strategy appears, however, to be to permit dissident Democrats to lead the early session anti-Roosevelt campaign.

Republican House Leader Snell also has conferred in recent days with Mills and other party figures.

"Everett Sanders in my opinion will remain National committee chairman as long as he wants to," Snell said.

WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE FROM DAVID HUTTON

His wife alleged as an additional act of cruelty his plight in being named defendant in a $200,000 breach of promise suit three days after they were married in Yuma, Ariz., Sept. 13, 1931. The suit later resulted in a $5000 jury award to Miss Myrtle St. Pierre, Pasadena nurse. When the verdict was returned Hutton rushed to her "and cruelly, rudely and deliberately" told her the judgment was only in the amount of $5000, which caused her to faint and fall and suffer a fractured skull, the complaint charged.

His conduct generally, it was alleged, caused her to become "highly nervous, extremely ill, worried and concerned." He persistently pestered her for money, she said.

Mrs. Hutton said there could be no division of community property because there is none. A prenuptial agreement was cited, stating that their property remained separate and distinct after their marriage.

In his suit, Hutton also alleged cruelty. He said he suffered great mental stress when his wife cabled from Europe that she had become a mother only to confide later the message was a hoax.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Dec. 21.—(To the Editor of The Register:) That Mussolini is a "dab." Yesterday he interviewed ninety-two mothers with a gross total of 1258 children, which divides out to about fourteen head per each. While our great slogan for the perpetuation of civilization was "a car in every garage," Mussolini's was "a baby in every arm, and more if you can carry 'em." He knows no nation ever become great on garages. You can't win a war in a Ford sedan, or repel an invasion in a Chevrolet coupe. These other dictators think they are doing some "dictating" when they announce a budget quota, but when you start laying out a maternity quota for the women, then you are really in the dictating business. That makes these other dictators look like amateurs.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Switz, his wife, and sixteen co-defendants were charged formally with espionage before an examining magistrate. Police were working on the theory that Finland was clearing house for information received. A particular point of interest was wireless apparatus seized in raids. The sets were of sufficient power to reach Moscow.

Authorities believed they had uncovered only fragments. The documents they seized including highly secret maps of fortifications and ships, will take a month to investigate. Three hundred police agents worked for eight months before they made their raids and arrested 18 persons.

BOARD CREATES NEW PRECINCT: CHANGES FOUR

For the purpose of equalizing registration in voting precincts, boundaries of four precincts were changed and one other precinct was divided by vote of the board of supervisors yesterday.

At Newport Beach the boundaries of precincts No. 1 and No. 2 were changed transferring approximately 150 registered voters from No. 2 into No. 1. Before the change of boundaries Precinct No. 1 had 130 registered voters while there were 457 registered in No. 2.

In the Fourth supervisorial district, boulevards of Olive and St. James precincts were changed transferring approximately 150 registered voters into Olive from the St. James precinct. Before the shifting of the boundaries there were 184 voters registered in the Olive precinct and 414 registered in St. James.

For the accommodation of voters Laguna precinct, on the South Coast was divided into two precincts to be known as South Laguna and North Laguna. The North Laguna precinct will include Laguna Canyon and the Emerald Bay district while South Laguna precinct will take in that area below the city of Laguna Beach embracing Three Arches, Arch Beach and Coast Royal. Before the change all voters below the city of Laguna Beach were required to vote at a polling place located in the canyon.

The change increases the number of precincts in the county to 245.

FAMOUS EXPLORER CALLED BY DEATH

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Knud Rasmussen, famous explorer, died today of blood poisoning. He became ill two months ago in Greenland and came here for treatment.

Rasmussen was 55. He was born at Jakobshavn, (CQ) Greenland, and was descended from Eskimos on his mother's side.

From 1902 to 1934 Rasmussen visited every Eskimo tribe. Arriving at Seattle, Wash., in 1924 from Alaska, he reached the end of a three year journey in the far north, during which he went by schooner, dog team and on foot along the Canadian and Alaskan coasts from Greenland to Siberia. He hoped to cross Siberia but Russia would not permit the journey.

WINNERS IN COAST CITIES' YULE LIGHTS CONTEST LISTED

Winners in the coast cities' Christmas lighting contest were announced today by Dr. C. G. Huston, of Costa Mesa, chairman of the planning committee of the Orange County Coast association.

The winners: Best community display, Huntington Beach; best organization display, First Christian church, Huntington Beach; honorable mention, West Newport Beach association; best city shrine, San Clemente; honorable mention to the cities of Newport Beach, Laguna Beach and Huntington Beach; best commercial display, Glider 'er inn, Seal Beach; honorable mention, Earl Hathaway, Laguna Beach; best service station display, La Normandy station, Laguna Beach; B. E. St. Clair, owner; honorable mention, J. Bristol, Huntington Beach; best private display, Mary K. Rahiman, 107 Twenty-third street, Newport Beach; honorable mention, G. L. Wheeler, Laguna Beach.

Mrs. Rahiman's display consisted of a desert scene, placed on the front porch of her home and lighted at night.

The judges were William Smith, of Orange; F. W. Slabaugh, Santa Ana, and Ray Baldwin, Long Beach.

Prizes were donated by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, Southern California Edison company, Laguna Beach city council, Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce and by a group represented by Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller, of Laguna Beach.

The yule lights will remain on until New Year's.

SILVER MONEY IS FAVORED BY BOURBON CHIEF

majority in either house even if its ranks were unbroken. But on that issue Mr. Roosevelt is likely to approach nearest to defeat in congress.

Rainey's hope that gold will be bid up to $41.34 an ounce, twice the gold standard dollar value of the metal, thus depreciating the dollar 50 per cent, generally is supported in congress.

Rainey contends the United States cannot undertake to maintain a ratio between gold and silver.

Instead of a ratio, Rainey proposed a double standard of metal-backed currency. Treasury silver certificates would call for redemption in silver bullion. Gold certificates would be redeemable in gold. The single gold standard, he said, is impossible for the United States.

Thomas' proposal is attracting even wider attention here. The groups opposing currency expansion and those which battled for a general sales tax program are almost identical.

In the sales tax lies a tremendous volume of revenue. But opponents fear the burden of taxation would be shifted further to the man of small means. They insist that enactment of a sales tax would lead gradually to abandonment of the income tax system of federal revenue.

Apart from those objections, a sales tax is attractive as an immediate source of large revenue. It is possible Thomas may have suggested a feasible trade-limited currency expansion for a limited sales tax. It is possible despite the fact that President Roosevelt a year ago was "horrified" at the suggestion of Democratic leaders that a sales tax be imposed.

House Republican Leader Snell is convinced this session is the last chance for a sales tax. He explained the states are adopting the system so rapidly that the federal government must act at once if it is to obtain such revenue before the field is pre-empted by the states.

TOD SLOAN, FAMED JOCKEY, SUCCUMBS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(UP)—James (Tod) Sloan, 59, one of the sports world's most famed characters, died here today.

The little jockey, who was rated by many critics as the best of all-time, lost a long and game fight against cirrhosis of the liver.

For a man who had made hundreds of thousands of dollars in his heyday—and ran through it almost as fast as he made it—his end was tragic. He was discovered a few weeks ago in the county hospital, a charity patient and in a condition which led physicians to say that his death was but a matter of a few days.

Old friends who had gone to his aid many times before had him removed to the private hospital in which he died.

Sloan's name was a by-word for years when he was booting home winners on racetracks throughout this country and in Europe. At one time he was employed as jockey for the Prince of Wales.

MAN JAILED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Arrested for drunken driving when Fullerton police saw him swerving his car from side to side of the highway, C. D. Baker, 55, Bellflower oil worker, was booked at the county jail at 10:50 last night.

Baker was driving near Buena Park when the officers stopped him. He was brought to Fullerton and turned over to California Highway Patrolman Vernon Barnhill, who booked him at the jail. Baker secured his release from jail this morning by posting $250 bail. He was pronounced intoxicated by a physician at the jail.

THREE ASK FOR MEASURES AND WEIGHTS POST

While the board of supervisors delayed action yesterday on the resignation of J. Fred Sidebottom as county sealer of weights and measures, there were three applications for that job and one for the post of assistant sealer of weights and measures filed with the board.

In his resignation Sidebottom asked that it become effective December 31. He is accepting a position with the liquor law enforcement division of the state board of equalization.

W. H. Armstrong, of Orange, filed his application with the board for the post of assistant sealer of weights and measures. Applicants for the vacancy created through Sidebottom's resignation were: W. C. Goddicksen, Orange; C. E. Gould, Orange; and J. P. Cozad of Santa Ana.

During the afternoon session yesterday the board of supervisors approved the allocation of $1200 from gasoline tax funds to the City of Newport Beach for use in street work. The board also postponed the time of open bids for the Westminster school bonds to December 26.

The board also designated Tuesday, December 26, as the date for canvassing the vote cast in the special election held last Tuesday. The board members will meet at 8 o'clock in the morning and start the canvass, expecting to have the task completed in time to conduct the regular routine business of the county.

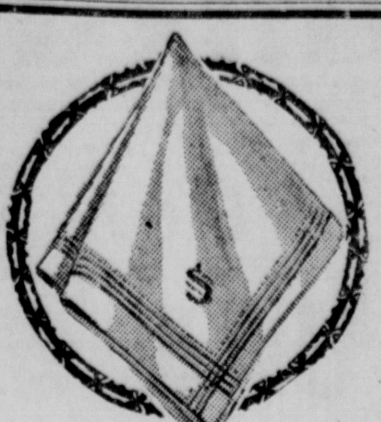

Yesterday afternoon there was little business transacted by the board. They returned late from lunch and immediately went into an "executive" session in the committee room and remained there until a few minutes before 4 o'clock when they returned to the board room to adjourn. No statement could be obtained on what matters were under consideration at the time of the huddle session.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

It is hard to wait for understanding that any good purpose is to be accomplished through what we have to suffer. It is impossible to guess why suffering, separation and loneliness have to be.

One thing is sure—God would not permit suffering if you could mold your soul without it. Suffering is a Latin word for suffering. Try not to miss the blessing hidden under the demand for patience while you wait for understanding.

EATON—At his home, 917 South Main street, December 20, 1933, Samuel B. Eaton, aged 76 years. Husband of Laura Eaton, father of Leslie B. Eaton, of Los Angeles and brother of Abel C. Eaton, of Big Bear. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. from Smith & Tuttle's chapel.

FIGURES SHOW INCREASE IN BUYING POWER

Revealing an upward trend in business as well as indicating increased purchasing power on the part of the general public, are figures released today by Postmaster T. E. Stephenson bearing on the volume of Christmas mail handled this season as compared with former years. A corresponding increase in postal receipts composed principally by sale of stamps is also disclosed in the records of his office, the postmaster declared.

During the last week more than 3000 sacks of mail, incoming and outgoing, were handled at the main post office, which total is about 10 per cent higher than the aggregate for the same period of last year, it was explained by Leonard F. Harvey, superintendent of mails. Yesterday close to 47,000 letters and cards went through the cancellation machines. On the preceding day the number stood at 42,000, and on Monday the machines registered 38,000, it was added. These figures, Harvey remarked, are in excess of those of last year for the same period.

Postal receipts up to closing time yesterday for the current month of December aggregated $12,950.49 as compared to $12,101.91, which increase, Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith declared, is significant because of the fact for the last three years there has been a constant drop in comparative figures on postal receipts. Total receipts for the three months of September, October and November this year amounted to $39,678.40 as against $39,507.84 last year.

Despite the increase in mail and parcel post, the rush incidental to the holiday season, is being handled in good shape. Postmaster Stephenson declared, adding that 15 extra workers have been added to the regular force.

In view of the fact that Christmas day falls on Monday, thus following Sunday on which the office is closed, he urged all senders of cards and packages to have their mail in at the earliest possible moment. He particularly stressed the desirability of having cards in the mail before 10 p. m. today, when the doors to the lobby of the post office building are locked for the night.

BUILDING, LOAN GROUPS TO MEET

Representatives of building and loan associations of six Southern California counties, including Orange county, are meeting in Los Angeles today to organize a group under the sponsorship of the California Building-Loan league, according to C. S. Crookshank, of Santa Ana, who is president of the Orange county league.

Every section of the state will be organized within the next 60 days in compliance with a recent amendment to the by-laws of the league. These groups will confine their activities to a determination of policies upon questions directly related to their business.

Express Company Makes Deliveries On Christmas Day

H. W. Lee, Santa Ana agent for the Railway Express agency, has announced that all Christmas shipments consigned to residents of Santa Ana and received Sunday, December 24 and Monday, December 25, Christmas Day, will be offered for delivery on those dates. The office also will be opened the forenoon of each day to accommodate rural residents, who may be expecting shipments, also for city residents, who were not home at the time their packages were delivered, Lee said.

Local Briefs

Sons and daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War will gather for a Christmas social in the K. P. hall at 6:30 p. m. Friday. There will be the customary holiday gift exchange.

CHARITY BALL TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Staged as a climax to the annual drive to raise funds for Christmas relief work, the Santa Ana Elks club will hold a Grand Charity ball tonight for the Christmas basket fund.

Each year the Elks club is instrumental in seeing that many families who might have empty cupboards at Christmas time get a big basket full of Christmas groceries and food. The dance to-night climaxes the drive for funds to purchase this food.

MAIN STREET WIDENING TO BEGIN SOON

Widening of South Main street from Fairview street to Delhi road into a three lane, 80 foot highway will be underway within a month, it was predicted today by city officials following a conference yesterday with state highway heads from Los Angeles.

The new setup of plans, prepared as Santa Ana's part in the allocation of gasoline tax funds to cities for the next two years, has been forwarded to Sacramento for approval by state highway officials and should be returned here in a short time. This city will receive $37,000 for work on state highways within the city limits and will spend about $24,000 on the South Main street project.

As soon as rights-of-way can be secured from the property owners, work will begin on the west of the street. At present, the road is 66 feet wide from Edinger road to the city limits and 70 feet wide from Edinger north. An equal strip will be taken from each side of the road to entail the least possible expense in removing trees and altering buildings and sidewalks.

The Santa Ana road department will have charge of the widening operations, under the direction of City Engineer J. L. McBride. It is hoped that the work can start in January and offer employment for additional men. Outside of a group of trees near St. Andrews place, the parkings are relatively free from trees and it will not be necessary to order much cutting McBride said.

The original plan for Santa Ana was to widen and pave West First street from Ardenia street to the western city limits. This was abandoned and the South Main street project substituted because it was believed that there was more traffic and chance for future development to the south and that it would be easier and cheaper to widen at this time, officials said.

Santa Ana's share of the gas tax is based on one-quarter cent from the three-cent tax on every gallon of gasoline sold in this city. Municipalities of the state are waging a strong fight to have this appropriation raised to one cent. Provisions of the state act limit improvement within cities to state highways. The only streets eligible under this stipulation are the 101 highway on North Main street and east on First street, South Main street towards Newport Beach and Grand avenue.

Mayor Paul Witmer signed the papers yesterday after it was agreed that the work would be centered on South Main street. At the same time, it was announced that the work would include the marking of traffic lanes on the entire length of the street as a means of preventing traffic congestion.

Although the change in plans was announced before the election Tuesday, Mayor Witmer said that the development at Newport Beach and the subsequent increase in traffic would be greatly benefited by the widening of the highway.

LABOR UNIONS TO MEET HERE TONIGHT

A meeting open to the members of all organized labor unions will be staged by the Orange County Central Labor Council at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Labor Temple on West Fourth street, it was announced today.

The meeting is being held in Santa Ana to make it easy for labor representatives to attend the meeting. It is planned to make the organization broader by taking in more affiliated organizations. Meetings usually are held in Anaheim.

URGE USE OF CWA FUNDS FOR ROAD PROJECTS

Recommendations that Civil Works Administration money, allotted to Orange county, be used for the construction of South Main street across the Irvine property to the Coast boulevard near Corona Del Mar, and that a road be built to Saddleback mountain, where a recreation park should be established, were voiced at a regular weekly dinner meeting of the Smedley chapter of the Santa Ana Toastmasters club held last night at the Doris-Kathryn Tea Shoppe on North Main street.

The extension of South Main street, it was argued by several speakers, would not only prove a worthwhile unemployment relief project, giving the taxpayers a fair return for their money, but would at the same time shorten the distance to the harbor district and stimulate motor travel through the central part of the county. Likewise it was argued that the building of a road to Saddleback mountain, with the establishment of a recreational park at that point, would add to the county's attractions as the playground of the Southland.

Brief talks were made by Assistant Chief of Police Harry Fink of Santa Ana; Dixon Tubbs, agricultural commissioner of Orange county, and E. T. Mateer, local business man.

SAMUEL B. EATON CALLED BY DEATH

Samuel B. Eaton, 76, resident of Santa Ana for the past 14 years, died at his home, 917 South Main street, yesterday following an illness of a year's duration. He had been seriously ill of heart trouble since last Sunday.

He was retired, having quit business in Illinois two years before coming to this city. He was a Mason and a member of the Shrine.

He is survived by his widow, Laura Eaton; one son, Leslie B. Eaton, Los Angeles, and a brother, Abel C. Eaton, of Big Bear.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. from the chapel of the Smith and Tuttle, minister of the Seventh Day Adventist church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

START MOVE TO SECURE WORK FOR MUSICIANS MISHAPS HERE

A movement to try to secure work for unemployed musicians of Orange county who are heads of families was announced today by Ted Collins, director of the Orange County Band.

Collins is attempting to work out a project which may be accepted as a C. W. A. project, in line with an announcement which came from Washington through Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, for development of a program of recreation, involving publicly maintained orchestras, etc., as a means of helping reduce unemployment.

Musicians interested in the idea were asked to leave their telephone numbers and information regarding what instrument they play at 402-1-2 West Fourth street. Instruments will be furnished for those that have none.

In furtherance of the plan, Collins has called a rehearsal for December 28 at 7:30 p. m. at the same address.

ABANDON PLAN FOR CITY PARK; BLAME COUNCIL

Blame for failure of the movement to secure a new city park for Santa Ana under the CWA project was placed on the shoulders of the city council by members of the special park committee working to put the project across, at a meeting held last night in the chamber of commerce offices.

The project was definitely abandoned last night after considerable discussion.

The council last Monday failed to take action on the matter at the meeting in which Mayor Paul Whitmer and Councilman Albert Le Gave took a stand favoring the park proposal.

A motion adopted by the group stated: "Subscribers to the park fund desire to state that the opportunity was presented to have labor and materials furnished to improve a substantial acreage as a park in the city of Santa Ana under the CWA program, provided land for the same was furnished."

A subscription was started to finance a purchase of the land and about $10,000 was subscribed in a very short time. Land suitable for park purposes was offered varying in price from $250 an acre to $1500 an acre.

All was contingent upon the favorable action of the city trustees in the matter. The necessary amount for the purchase of the park land could have been raised to have brought the project to a successful conclusion.

"The city council failed to approve the project, therefore compelling all action by the park committee to cease."

Another motion was adopted at the meeting, expressing appreciation to J. S. Smart, chairman of the committee, and to George A. Raymer, secretary, for their help in securing subscriptions, as well as to others who were active in the movement.

CHUN TO SPEAK ON HAWAII AT FORUM TONIGHT

"Internationalism is not an intellectual theory in Hawaii, it is an every day actuality among the rank and file of the population," says Arthur Chun who is speaking tonight at the People's Forum, Third and Bush streets, at 7:30 p. m. on the subject "Is Hawaii Americanized?—Is it a Strength or a Weakness?"

Chun is the first student to be officially exchanged from the University of Hawaii, which is located at Honolulu, to Pomona college, and has been a frequent speaker since coming to the Southern California school.

"Hawaii is strong for the NRA and the administration recovery program," says Chun. "When the first word of the NRA came to Honolulu the Chamber of Commerce and the necessary committees were quickly organized and all the various shops of the many different races prepared to change their economic set-up, which is quite at variance from what you know in the States, and comply to the new codes. Then word came from General Johnson that Hawaii was not to be included in the codes covering the United States. Nothing daunted, Hawaii proceeded to the inauguration of their own codes and if I am not mistaken they comply with them somewhat better than I have observed compliance on the mainland. Of course I may be slightly prejudiced."

Wilfred Taylor, president of the Santa Ana Council of International Relations which is sponsoring the lecture by Chun, will introduce the speaker. The lecture is open to the public without charge.

Following an address by F. A. Baughn, Huntington Park, secretary of the Los Angeles County League of municipalities, the Laguna Beach city council last night went on record as being in sympathy with the movement to organize a new body in the Southern California Municipal association, which will act independently of the League of California municipalities, of which the Orange County league is a division.

Baughn said the new organization will endeavor to get a better division of gasoline tax funds for the cities.

With two projects approved by the state administrator and three others approved by the county CWA committee, A. J. Stead, engineer employed by the city to handle the jobs, reported that the five projects call for a total of $4,567 man hours of work, at a cost of $18,510.76 for labor and $7209.29 for materials. In addition to the Heister park improvement and the project for paving portions of Laguna and Park avenues and Gleneyre street, already sanctioned, the new projects call for the planting of trees in the Cliffs section, the building of a pedestrian subway under Coast boulevard to Sleepy Hollow lane and a building for the street department. A proposal originating in the Woman's club and presented by the chamber of commerce calls for the cutting down of high curbs and the repair of alleys. Floyd W. Case, superintendent of streets, was asked to estimate the amount of work to be done.

An ordinance was passed on final reading which places a license fee of $5 on each marble game in use in the city that requires a nickel for operation.

Mayor Frank B. Champion reported a new gambling game in operation, a sort of horse racing device, and Commissioner of Police M. B. McMillan was asked to have Police Chief Abe Johnson get the evidence to force it out of the city.

City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey was asked to draw up agreements with persons who have failed to pay special assessments for sewer connections illegally made by which the back indebtedness may be paid off in monthly installments.

City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey suggested to the council that under a new law it may be possible to get relief for property owners on Sleepy Hollow lane, improved under the Mattoon Act, by the issuing of refunding bonds. This might be done, he said, provided that 75 per cent of the bond holders agree. City Treasurer Ed H. Beaver was asked to get a list of the bond holders before further steps are taken.

DOING HER BIT FOR OTHERS

Here's a youngster who was so anxious to help her less fortunate fellow citizens that she couldn't wait until Saturday to go to the big benefit show to be staged by The Register and the Broadway theater at 10:30 o'clock. She explained to Les Fountain, manager of the theater, who is shown here with her, that she just had to bring some food for other children who might be hungry on Christmas. She promised to come back for the show Saturday and to bring as many of her friends as possible.

TEARS AND SMILES COMBINED AS LONELY AGED PEOPLE ARE HONOR GUESTS AT YULE EVENT

By MARAH ADAMS

Smiles which were wet with tears trembled on the lips of not only the guests but of hostesses as well, as a group of aged men and women from the Orange county farm were welcomed at the Orange Woman's Clubhouse yesterday at an annual Christmas party given for them each year by members of the club.

The occasion was one of the happiest and yet one of the saddest of the year. It was the happy because at Christmas someone had remembered that a group of tired and lonely old folks like a gay time as well as anyone, and the saddest because the old people could not help remembering happier days which for them were forever gone.

The Christmas tree sparked a gay welcome to them from one corner of the lobby and it was placed in a setting of vases filled with holly leaves and berries, and baskets of flaming poinsettias. Twenty-four men and four women were seated in the lobby of the clubhouse where the logs blazed and crackled in the wide fireplace and where an informal hour was spent before the more formal program was given in the club room.

Mrs. N. J. Whitney opened the program by reading an original Christmas poem written by Estelle Card Beeman of Santa Ana. Old time hymns and Christmas carols were chosen and sung by the guests. Mrs. Leon Des Larzes led the singing and Mrs. Jess Coe, in a red frock, was the embodiment of the spirit of Christmas music as she played favorite tunes requested again and again by the guests.

A near tragedy for four of the guests was averted by Mrs. B. R. Douglas, who answered a hurry call from Dr. Harry Zaiser at the hospital who stated that four of the men had not been at the appointed place when cars from Orange arrived to take the guests to the clubhouse and so had been left behind.

One of the women guests, for the first time was proudly wearing a pretty blue print frock, which she confided to clubwomen, had been sent to her by her son, who himself was making a struggle to support his family in a distant state. The frock, she said, had been sent especially for the party.

All of the guests turned happy faces homeward at the close of the afternoon when a light lunch with ice cream, cakes and coffee had been served and each carried a box of good things to eat and a little present in Christmas wrappings. Old men looked less tired and weary with lives that somehow were not ending as they had planned in long ago youths and the four old ladies hummed softly bits of the Christmas carols they had just sung.

Mrs. Josephine Biffle played several piano solos, little Maxine Davis played several piano accordion solos and Miss Shirley Valentine gave two songs and dances. Women assisting with the party were Mrs. Alfred Higgins, Mrs. Fred Alden, Mrs. N. J. Whitney, Mrs. Jack Clayton, Mrs. Christine Lambert, Mrs. R. W. Miller, Mrs. C. E. Lush, Mrs. C. W. Coffey, Mrs. Henry Meier, Mrs. B. R. Douglas, Mrs. Charlotte Wallace, Mrs. J. T. McInnis, Mrs. Jess Coe, Mrs. Leon Des Larzes and Mrs. Earl Elson.

Boys who intend to go into the snow must be properly clothed and equipped, including mountain clothes and bedroll or pack, he said. White pointed out that the boys will be given excellent food. One of the typical noonday meals includes hot roast, baked potatoes, string beans, bread, bean soup, and bread-custard pudding.

EXPECT BIG ATTENDANCE AT BENEFIT SHOW

A most unique situation will ensue Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock when the big Register-Broadway benefit show is staged.

All of the hundreds of children who are expected to come to the show, paying their way to the show with food, toys, clothes, etc., will all be miniature Santa Clauses, while Santa Claus himself will greet them from the stage and thank them for their help in seeing that children less fortunate than themselves are made happy this Christmas.

Sad-eyed children who look forward this year to Christmas day with little hope of seeing full stockings when they get up on Christmas morning, may be made happy through the distribution of the contributions received at the show.

Les Fountain, manager of the show, today expressed the hope that every boy and girl in the city will come to see the special two-hour show arranged especially for the occasion and will bring some article of food, clothing or a toy or candy as a gift to prove that the spirit of Christmas is in giving and not receiving.

With the motive behind it and such a good show arranged through pictures donated by Fox Films, including a Zane Grey western picture, Mickey Mouse and other comedies, a house full to overflowing is anticipated. It is hoped that huge piles of food, clothing and toys will be in evidence in the lobby of the theater, proving to everyone that boys and girls of Santa Ana will not let Christmas pass by the less fortunate of their small friends without doing something about it.

All the operators, ushers, house managers and employees of the show are donating their time in this most worthy cause so that there will be no expense involved at all. Materials received will be distributed through assistance of the Salvation Army.

Why not do a double good deed? Why not send some youngster you know to the show who may not have something extra to give as his admission ticket?

TUSTIN CENTER TOLD OF RURAL CREDIT SET-UP

"Federal Rural Credits and Production Loans" was the subject of an interesting talk given by W. C. Childers, of Santa Ana, chairman of the poultry department of the state farm bureau, at the regular meeting of the Tustin Farm center Wednesday night. Childers substituted for Roland D. Flaherty, newly elected secretary of the Orange County Production Credit corporation, who was scheduled to talk on the above subject, but was unable to attend. Howard Timmons, president, presided.

Childers stated that the association has a capital stock of $200,000 at the present time. He explained how loans are made to ranchers, adding that one's ability to secure a loan, will depend largely on how careful his application and budget are made out.

Holmes Bishop, who is taking Flaherty's place temporarily as farm bureau secretary, told of the work he hoped to see accomplished in the farm bureau centers of the county.

An interesting report on the various resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the California Farm Bureau federation, held at Santa Barbara during November, was given by S. W. Stanley, Tustin delegate.

John Crill, state delegate and chairman of the Orange County Farm bureau membership department, gave a short talk on "Farm Center Work."

45 BOYS GOING TO BOY SCOUT WINTER CAMP

With about 45 boys from various parts of Orange county already enrolled, plans were being wound up today for the annual week at Camp Rokill, sponsored by the Orange County Boy Scout Council.

Scout Executive Harrison E. White, who will be in charge of the camp outing, which will start December 26, announced today that applicants to go to camp have been slow from Santa Ana. He urged parents or boys who wish to leave with the group to make necessary arrangements by tomorrow night if possible.

He pointed out that there are accommodations for around 80 boys. Some boys from Riverside county will accompany the Orange county boys. All supplies have been taken into camp, where already there is more than two and a half feet of snow on the ground, White said. Roads to the camp will be kept open by state highway workers.

Boys who intend to go into the snow must be properly clothed and equipped, including mountain clothes and bedroll or pack, he said. White pointed out that the boys will be given excellent food. One of the typical noonday meals includes hot roast, baked potatoes, string beans, bread, bean soup, and bread-custard pudding.

Furniture Firm Sues on Contract

A three-piece living room set or payment of $400 is at issue in a suit filed in superior court by Maroney's, Incorporated, naming Mrs. Otto Neumann as defendant.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Neumann originally purchased the articles from Maroney Furniture company, agreeing to pay a total of $655, plus $99.16 interest, in monthly installments. At the time of signing the agreement, according to the complaint, Mrs. Neumann had already paid $253.81 on an old agreement for the purchase of the furniture. The amount sued for is the balance allegedly due on the contract, which was signed September 15, last.

ABANDON PLAN CHUN TO SPEAK FOR CITY PARK; ON HAWAII AT BLAME COUNCIL FORUM TONIGHT

Blame for failure of the movement to secure a new city park for Santa Ana under the CWA project was placed on the shoulders of the city council by members of the special park committee working to put the project across, at a meeting held last night in the chamber of commerce offices.

The project was definitely abandoned last night after considerable discussion. The council last Monday failed to take action on the matter at the meeting in which Mayor Paul Wither and Councilman Albert Le Gave took a stand favoring the park proposal.

A motion adopted by the group stated: "Subscribers to the park fund desire to state that the opportunity was presented to have labor and materials furnished to improve a substantial acreage as a park in the city of Santa Ana under the CWA program, provided land for the same was furnished."

"A subscription was started to finance a purchase of the land and about $10,000 was subscribed in a very short time. Land suitable for park purposes was offered varying in price from $250 an acre to $1500 an acre."

"All was contingent upon the favorable action of the city trustees in the matter. The necessary amount for the purchase of the park land could have been raised to have brought the project to a successful conclusion."

"The city council failed to approve the project, therefore compelling all action by the park committee to cease."

Another motion was adopted at the meeting, expressing appreciation to J. S. Smart, chairman of the committee, and to George A. Raymer, secretary, for their help in securing subscriptions, as well as to others who were active in the movement.

"Internationalism is not an intellectual theory in Hawaii. It is an every day actuality among the rank and file of the population," says Arthur Chun who is speaking tonight at the People's Forum, Third and Bush streets, at 7:30 p. m. on the subject "Is Hawaii Americanized?—Is It a Strength or a Weakness?"

Chun is the first student to be officially exchanged from the University of Hawaii, which is located at Honolulu, to Pomona college, and has been a frequent speaker since coming to the Southern California school.

"Hawaii is strong for the NRA and the administration recovery program," says Chun. "When the first word of the NRA came to Honolulu the Chamber of Commerce and the necessary committees were quickly organized and all the various shops of the many different races prepared to change their economic set-up, which is quite at variance from what you know in the States, and comply to the new codes. Their word came from General Johnson that Hawaii was not to be included in the codes covering the United States. Nothing daunted, Hawaii proceeded to the inauguration of their own codes and if I am not mistaken they comply with them somewhat better than I have observed compliance on the mainland. Of course I may be slightly prejudiced."

Wilfred Taylor, president of the Santa Ana Council of International Relations which is sponsoring the lecture by Chun, will introduce the speaker. The lecture is open to the public without charge.

ASSOCIATION IS GIVEN BACKING OF BEACH CITY

Following an address by F. A. Baughn, Huntington Park, secretary of the Los Angeles County League of municipalities, the Laguna Beach city council last night went on record as being in sympathy with the movement to organize a new body in the Southern California Municipal association, which will act independently of the League of California municipalities, of which the Orange County League is a division. Baughn said the new organization will endeavor to get a better division of gasoline tax funds for the cities.

With two projects approved by the state administrator and three others approved by the county CWA committee, A. J. Slead, engineer employed by the city to handle the jobs, reported that the five projects call for a total of 24,567 man hours of work, at a cost of $18,510.70 for labor and $7209.39 for materials. In addition to the Heister park improvement and the project for paving portions of Laguna and Park avenues and Glenview street, already sanctioned, the new projects call for the planting of trees in the Cliffs section, the building of a pedestrian subway under Coast boulevard to Sleepy Hollow lane, and a building for the street department. A proposal originating in the Woman's club and presented by the chamber of commerce calls for the cutting down of high curbs and the repair of alleys. Floyd W. Case, superintendent of streets, was asked to estimate the amount of work to be done.

An ordinance was passed on final reading which places a license fee of $5 on each marble pine game in use in the city that requires a nickel for operation. Mayor Frank B. Champion reported a new gambling game in operation, a sort of horse racing device, and Commissioner of Police M. B. McMillan was asked to have Police Chief Abe Johnson get the evidence to force it out of the city.

City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey was asked to draw up agreements with persons who have failed to pay special assessments for sewer connections illegally made by which the back indebtedness may be paid off in monthly installments.

REVEAL PLANS FOR ANNUAL ROSE TOURNEY

PASADENA, Dec. 21.—Led by Admiral William S. Sims, retired, who will act as grand marshal, the forty-fifth annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade, will, from present indications, be the largest and most spectacular ever presented.

More than 70 California cities and organizations have already placed their entries, and with the exotic theme "Tales of the Seven Seas", designers are busily at work on their interpretations, through the medium of flowers, of the myriad tales and characters of the sea which have come down from the pages of history and romance.

In keeping with the theme the parade this year will be fashioned into a great book of sea tales. Admiral Sims will serve as the title page and Miss Treva Scott, the Queen of the Seven Seas, with her Court of Princesses, each representing one of the seas, will serve as the frontispiece. Following them each division will be a chapter and each float a page, telling one of the tales of the days of the pirates, the explorers and adventures which have delighted children and grown-ups alike since time immemorial. The Tournament of Roses season will open this year with a great Coronation Pageant followed by a formal ball on the night of December 28, at the Pasadena Civic auditorium. The following afternoon a special performance of this elaborate spectacle will be given for the children followed by a popular performance in the evening. The parade and ball are open to the public and all proceeds to the charity.

On New Year's afternoon another of the great East-West football classics will be held in the Rose Bowl, when Columbia and Stanford meet. Sports writers throughout the country have hailed this game as presenting two of the best matched teams in the country, and forecasting a game which would be outstandingly fine.

WASHINGTON

POLITICS

Mr. Roosevelt's emergency administrators are pestered by the politicians.

Either they're being accused of leaning backward so far that they're getting jobs or they're charged with trying to make Democratic machines out of their field organizations.

This goes particularly for Harry Hopkins of Civil Works and Harold Ickes of Public Works. Never let it be thought the Farm Credit Administration and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation aren't getting their share of brick bats.

Ickes first got it in the neck from the spoilsman when about 10 per cent of the Public Works state advisory board memberships turned out to be Republicans.

Iowa Democrats are up in arms over the strong G. O. P. tinge in their state civil works organization. In Chicago it was complained the Democratic bosses were controlling loans to home owners.

Congressmen from the central states swear the Farm Credit Administration is in the hands of Hoover hold-overs.

FAVORS

The beleaguered administrators have a stock answer to these thrusts. All the people are being taxed to pay for the emergency recovery program. A Republican or a Socialist can get hungry or need a job as easily as a Democrat.

Recently in a southern state the Department of Commerce discovered it had appointed a man as aeronautics adviser who was about to declare himself a candidate for Congress. He was using the office as a vote-gathering headquarters so he was fired.

Hopkins heard the word had been passed in Youngstown that all deserving Democrats would be taken care of on the civil works rolls. He ordered the Ohio director to investigate and put an end to favoritism.

Spreading the word that the spoilsman were in the saddle seriously retarded organization of one emergency setup recently.

A story was circulated widely that only active Democratic women were to be made chairmen of the county consumer councils being established by the Consumers' Advisory Board of the NRA. Headquarters here promptly were flooded with demands from patriotic citizens who had agreed to help organize, demanding to know if this were true. If so they wanted no part of the job.

FRIENDS

As a matter of fact, Dr. Paul Douglas and Dr. William T. Foster of the Consumers' Board first circulated about 600 of their personal friends without regard to politics asking them to serve. The confidential letter sent out said in part:

"Success of this plan (to protect the consumer's interests) will depend mainly on the men and women who make up these councils. We do not want figureheads, or laissez-faire theorists, or self-seekers.

"Neither do we want anyone who primarily represents industry, or commerce, or labor, since these interests are represented elsewhere. We want council members who will act wholeheartedly for consumers as a whole."

College professors were numerous among those first appealed to. All alleged a willingness to be friends to the consumer. A second list was addressed later on the basis of recommendations from national civic organizations.

LEG MEN

As you have already noticed in the news columns Ickes has been suffering great grief from the activity of lobbyists in his Public Works battle.

Observers around the Interior Department incline to the view the Secretary fired a broadside at a sailboat when he singled James L. Bernard out in a general order which declared the manufacturers' agent to be persons non grata. Far bigger fish than Bernard have been treading the corridors daily in recent weeks—and presumably not for their health.

Robert Jackson, secretary of the Democratic National Committee when he isn't practicing law before the New Deal, admitted to reporters he had been employing Bernard as a "leg man."

BLEAT

It remains for Hopkins of Civil Works to turn up with the prize bleat of all. He received a letter from an Indiana town which said: "I run a small club in which I have beer for sale. Also cards and pool playing at ten cents a game."

"Now some of the boys belong to the club that work on Civil Works that is being done in this town. They have told them there is to be no card playing or drinking. They have got the boys afraid to come into the place for they do not want to lose their jobs."

"Yet I pay as much or more federal taxes as any place in town. I wish you would give me a letter over the working man or not."

No order like that had ever come from Washington headquarters so the letter was not answered for fear it would get reverse English interpretation as permission to drink, etc.

According to CWA officials the only rule is that every man must show up regularly and put everything he has into his job.

NOTES

Boys in the northern C. C. C. camps now have snowshoes, skis and ice skates as part of a well-fare movement aimed at them.

Also they enjoy the use of radio, telephone, wood-fire heat and shower baths—just in case you haven't noticed yet.

One might also suspect a Roosevelt influence in the camp clubs sprung up in several camps. Chief Moran of the U. S. Secret Service went to a breakfast of the Early Birds here the other day.

When he went to leave, despite all his deductive powers, he couldn't find his overcoat.

When Comptroller General Macaulay attempted to state that the government officials could ride in which government airplanes he made just one mistake.

The Secretary of the Interior may fly only in an Army plane and the Public Works Administrator must keep the Navy carriers.

They're both a gentleman named Ickes.

REPUBLICANS
The implications of the Republican family row between Kingsland Macy and the old guard go way beyond New York State.

Political insiders call it a slick maneuver in preparation for '34. They also whisper that Macy may put up to it by powerful Republican forces who aim to steer the party's national destiny. The object is to find out in advance whether the woes of utility security holders can be built into a worthwhile issue.

If Macy's attack on the "power trust" draws a hearty response from the rank and file of party members there isn't much use trying to stir up sympathy for the down-trodden utilities. But if a party majority seems to side with the old guard it would set the green light for use of the utilities as a sample of government intrusion on individual rights. The reaction will make a big difference in campaign plans.

New York State is a good laboratory for the experiment because the party machinery is under excellent control. It is too early to tell what the outcome will be.

JUICE

There's a lot of propaganda coming from the utility people themselves to the effect that the future is black and utility securities should be sold. You run into it a dozen times a day in Wall Street.

The object? To depress the market and slow up recovery in order to gain a trading point. Sponsors for the propaganda believe that the government will make concessions rather than have its market mirror of progress seriously smeared.

So far these bear stories haven't had much effect. Utilities have lagged behind the rest of the market but there has been no rush to liquidate. Some of the more responsible utility leaders disagree violently with these depression tactics.

Local New Deal defenders say the real issue is whether the utilities shall be dominated by those whose chief concern is selling paper or those more interested in selling "juice." Up to now the paper crowd has been in the saddle.

PUBLICITY
Publicity experts for the utilities have put over a new stunt in their campaign to "educate" the public—forecast in this column. Through intermediaries known antagonists of the electric and gas industries are goaded into writing letters to the editors of important newspapers. Within a few days after publication the papers receive a carefully prepared reply to the attack from some outstanding leader in the utilities field. They are so replete with convincing statistics that it is difficult to cut them, consequently several of these "letters" have been published as feature articles. Which is exactly what the boys wanted.

ACCOUNTING
The New York Public Service Commission's new ruling on utility accounting methods will cut more than 100 million dollars from the annual earnings of the utility companies. Several companies have maintained a high earnings record by grace of small depreciation write-offs based on assets ten to twenty years old. Uniform write-offs brought up to date will reduce the earnings of these units sharply. The local Commission's action may be a forerunner of national policy.

PASSAMAQUODDY

The big Passamaquoddy power development in Maine seems to be moving along. Engineer Dexter Cooper was asked by PWA to prove the self-liquidating feature of his plan by lining up power contracts in advance. He tried a flock of utility companies from Maine to Massachusetts and got nowhere.

Paradoxically this helps him out. The refusal of private companies to have anything to do with him makes his project more desirable from the government angle of forcing a utility showdown. Passamaquoddy may rank second only to the Tennessee Valley within a year.

MIGRATION

Informed New Yorkers hear that the government seriously plans to encourage the migration of ten million city dwellers to small country places where they can become partially self-sustaining—in line with Henry Ford's idea for his workers. This would cut down city uses of electricity but would eventually create a broader market for electrical appliances and power.

UNIFICATION

Unification of New York City's transit facilities will be a live issue soon. Mayor-elect LaGuardia will push it as the simplest way of carrying out his budget-balancing pledge. This must be done before the city can collect the R. F. C. loan to complete its own subway system—which is an important factor in LaGuardia's re-employment plans.

Large holders of transit securities sniff a golden harvest in the offing and are prepared to quote a fancy price for agreeing to unification. They think they need him and LaGuardia must play some tall poker if the city is to keep its shirt. Some of Wall Street's shrewdest operators are in on the deal.

PRICES

New York stores are beginning to wish they hadn't made their customers quite so price-conscious the last couple of years. It was a good sale point while it lasted but now there is a noticeable slackening of demand every time prices edge up a little. "Quality" education progresses slowly.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Federal and city officers here have found a solution to the problem of dealing with bootleggers who seek to openly play their trade now that repeal is just around the corner.

REVEAL PLANS FOR ANNUAL ROSE TOURNEY

PASADENA, Dec. 21.—Led by Admiral William S. Sims, retired, who will act as grand marshal, the forty-fifth annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade, will, from present indications, be the largest and most spectacular ever presented.

More than 70 California cities and organizations have already placed their entries, and with the exotic theme "Tales of the Seven Seas", designers are busy at work on their interpretations, through the medium of flowers, of the myriad tales and characters of the sea, which have come down from the pages of history and romance.

In keeping with the theme the parade this year will be fashioned into a great book of sea tales. Admiral Sims will serve as the parade page and Miss Treva Scott, the Queen of the Seven Seas, with her Court of Princesses, each representing one of the seas, will serve as the frontpiece. Following them each division will be a chapter and each plot a page, telling the one of the days of the pirates, the explorers and adventures which have delighted

The following afternoon a special performance of this elaborate spectacle will be given for the children followed by a popular performance in the evening. The parade and ball are open to the public and all proceeds will go to charity.

PEDEN'S OFF-DAY

After six days of that squirrel-like wheel known as bicycle racing, man must take a little time off, rest up and learn to walk again. The riders do not spend their 7-days pedaling around on some fellow's wheel.

Torchy Peden, young star of a blistering bowl, recently completed a six-day spin in Cleveland. I washed up. Where would he be without his do, to re-prepare?

"I'm going hunting," said the Red Rider. "I'm going to have me fun up in my home country riding target practice at black. Hiking through those Brits. Columbia woods is a lark or one of these whizzes."

THAT ROLLING WOOD

A week of that would be great recreation, of course. A week of it! I'm going to have five, six, seven weeks of it. I won't read Peden's name in entry list until February may, when they throw the legs over their saddles in Madison Square garden. These bikes are something you have to get away from in a while. The old eyes get used to seeing wood rolling up in front of you.

How was the hunting eye, after those weeks of circling a pine saucer?

"Not too good. Can't always bring down the first bear I get a head on. But I don't bring 'em back unless I drill 'em through the head. And I expect to get a couple, at least."

NEARS RECORD

Since October Peden has been wearing the number on his back and pushing the pedals with his feet. Toronto, Montreal, Chicago, New York, Cleveland—just like a sentence of 30 days at hard labor, 30 days of hard labor of 24 hours each, with frenzied sleep snatched at intervals! Still regarded as a "boy rider," Peden has won 11 of these cruel grinds, and before he is very far along the road of his career the Big Torch will sweep past all records—Pete Van Kempen's proud 16 victories—the veteran Reggie McNamara's 13 wins. Madison Square Garden, where he won his last race early in December, Peden regards as a lucky spot. And when February comes, the keeper of the archives may have to turn another page for Torchy, making it an even dozen.

CHURCH 'IRON MAN' ACT ENDS IN JAYSEE WIN

Keeping an engagement with Santa Ana junior college despite a conflict in scheduled arrangements which sent them against another opponent earlier in the evening, the First Methodist, first-half champions of the Community Church Basketball league, lost to the Dons, 47-34, in the Andrews gym last night. The contest, which attracted the best crowd of the pre-season campaign, did not offer an accurate comparison of Jaysee and church league play for two reasons: (1) the Methodist champions were not at their best after playing the Mormons in a regular Y. M. C. A. league game earlier, and (2) the junior college was not at full strength, several potential regulars missing from its lineup. Although slowed up considerably on account of their first assignment, the Methodists were by no means a push-over for the Dons. Asa Herren, star forward, was a constant threat, finished with 18 points and high scoring honors ahead of the college's Ed Bragg, who accounted for 17 points on difficult shots from all angles of the court. The rapid development of Forward Bragg has been the highlight of the early drills. Bragg was an inconsistent reserve last season who had a difficult time making baskets. So far he has proved to be the outstanding shooter on the squad, and from all indications will be playing regular forward when the Dons open their conference season next month. Alex Clark, guard, and Reg Lake, forward, shared honors with Guard Bob Schwarm and Center Horace Rither also performing well. Spangler and Cook shared offensive honors with the brilliant Herren. Both teams broke into the open time and again only to miss set-ups. Confident that under more favorable conditions they can give the Dons a real run for their money, the Methodists have requested a return game. They wanted to play tomorrow night, but the Dons have a game here with a Long Beach independent team. Another contest with the Methodists will be arranged next week, according to Coach Ed Adams. The lineups: Junior College (47) (34) First Meth. B. Stoddard (35) F. (38) Herren Bragg (17) F. (16) Clark Rither (21) G. (10) Spangler A. Clark (9) G. (6) Cook Schwarm (8) G. (6) McChesney Substitutions: Junior College—Malton for Schwarm, Lake (4) for Rither, Dugan (2) for Bragg, Bell for Dugan, Hurley for B. Stoddard, Marple for Hurley, First Methodist—Hottle (4) for Dean, Dean for Spangler. Score by Quarters: Junior College 13 10 12 13-47 First Methodist 11 10 6 8 35-47

STOCKING UP

Chuck Klein, top slugger of the National League, recently sold by the Phils to the Chicago Cubs, was a careful shopper in Chicago recently. Klein went out to buy some war club wince to assault the eight-foot fence of the Cubs' park, which is some 52 feet lower than that of the Phillies' ballpark. He is shown inspecting bludgeons.

ASK LANDIS TO REINSTATE OLD 'SHOELESS JOE'

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—At the moment, it seems strictly a matter between the mayor of Greenville, S. C., who has asked the question, and K. M. Landis, who hasn't yet answered it. Nevertheless, it will undoubtedly interest both of them to learn that a pool of opinion among prominent baseball men today reveals a surprising degree of sentiment in favor of a commutation of sentence, so that Joe Jackson—"Shoeless Joe," who conspired with seven other White Sox to lose the 1919 world series—can make some arrangements to resume eating. I say this attitude is surprising, not because I think Jackson should be hounded down the years until there is nothing left for him except poverty and squalor; but because the customary behavior of baseball men when confronted by a chance to do somebody some good is not strictly in keeping with their reaction now. No Sentiment in Baseball In other words, as far as they are concerned, sentiment is something that gathers in the kitchen sink and, in case the point is still in doubt, let me add that, any time baseball is asked to give, it's always ready. I mean it's always ready to give you the back of the neck. Anyhow, I'm notorious for my generosity with other people's bounty, so why stop with Jackson? He needs the money he might get from running a petty cash business with an obscure minor league club. All right, give the man his break. One known mistake for one lifetime is a fair average and, besides, the implied harm that might be done thereby to an impersonal, nebulous thing called ethics is nothing compared to the good that would be done an individual who seems to have reached the point of urgent distress. But as I say this I'm wondering how Gene Paulette is doing. He didn't have Jackson's fame or any portion of his ability; in fact, he was only a red-headed guy who could hit a little and play a lot of first base. And all he did was cash a bet on what he knew. In other words, he wasn't a member of the White Sox and neither was Joe Odeon, who also learned something interesting before the series and lived to wish he hadn't. O'Connell Talked Too Much By standards, Jimmy O'Connell didn't do much before the 1924 series, either. He talked a little too freely, whereas there are players still in baseball whose only virtue on that occasion, suspect, was that they did not talk at all. Of course, this is asking baseball to be consistent and inability or unwillingness to comply is the very thing I fear will prevent Joe Jackson from receiving his victuals at the usual hours. For a number of years, in fact, "Buck" Weaver petitioned unsuccessfully for a reopening of his case and it seems that Weaver's only sin was that he knew but didn't tell. Sport writers naturally are hardy the type to become bitter about this inconsistency is only a part of the extraordinary charm. We picked the Sox in that series and then sat glumly by and watched them lose without so much as questioning the validity of their antics. I did happen to go briefly but intimately into some of this with Billy Evans after the second game, in which "Lefty" Williams walked eight men. I believe Mr. Evans was the umpire-in-chief that day. It also was the day that saw Williams and Ray Schalk engage in a clubhouse brawl after the game. Press Boys Were Ignorant "Just a hard luck performance," said Evans, dismissing Williams lightly. "I hated to call some of them, they were so close." Of course, Mr. Evans may have been kidding. He was younger then and so was I and, as Frank Frisch once said, "There's always a lot of kidding going around." The only guys who can't kid me, however, are the press boys who said they knew all about it from the first but didn't say anything, because they are the strong silent type whose self-restraint is the envy of all. Frankly, only one of them, Hughie Fullerton, knew what was going on; he was too close to the Sox not to know. As for the rest, they were all fired up with a lot of local hospitality and, half the time, didn't know whether it was a world series or a rodeo.

SAINT CAGERS SEEK NEW WIN OVER FARMERS

Santa Ana and Tustin high schools clash in a basketball game in Andrews gymnasium tomorrow afternoon between 2 to 4 o'clock. Coach Reese Greene's Saints trounced Coach Bill Cole's Farmers, 39-25, in an early practice skirmish, and will be favored to win the return engagement. The Saints have been taking morning workouts this week in preparation for the encounter. They were scheduled to oppose Redlands high school here this afternoon, but the game was postponed until next week. Coach Greene sized up the Redlands

RULE STANFORD END INELIGIBLE FOR ROSE BOWL

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Coach Lou Little of Columbia has no objection to Stanford playing Al Norgard, ineligible and in the Pasadena Rose Bowl game, he said here today. "I'll be happy to have Mr. Norgard play," Little said. Norgard, stellar end credited with Stanford's victory over the University of California, yesterday was found to have been ineligible under Pacific Coast conference rules. He had played two minutes while a student at St. Ignatius, now the University of San Francisco. Little's team arrived here today and immediately prepared for a secret workout. "There are too many things to be done between now and New Year's day and we don't intend to let out our secrets at any of the practice stops we may make," said Little. He was none too optimistic over the chance his team may have to defeat Stanford. Little was reluctant in discussing the ineligibility of Captain-elect Joe Ferrara, 195-pound tackle. He said Ferrara might play if he could iron out scholastic difficulties. After the team was quartered in a downtown hotel, Little went into conference with Coach Ray Morrison of Southern Methodist university regarding a possible game in 1934 or 1935 between the Lions and Mustangs. The Columbia team was scheduled to leave here late today, with the next stop scheduled for El Paso.

When Asa Herren, First Methodist forward, scored 39 points to his credit, Bill Kolkhorst, First Methodist center, as all-time scoring champion at the Y.M.C.A. a week ago, Community Church basketball followers thought a record would stand indefinitely but Eric Twist, lanky center for the Orange Avenue Christians, rang up the amazing total of 44 points against St. Peter's Lutheran team last night to prove they were mistaken. Twist averaged more than a point-a-minute while establishing a new record, scored 22 points in the first half. The final count was 44 in favor of the Christians. Peter's Lutheran collar team at the winners at the wrong end, for not only Twist but Forwards Bramley and Denio were at their best. The latter two accounted for 21 points. Tuma, Jensen and Woods contributed to a loser's score. Maintaining their position in place along with the First Christians, the First Methodists came from behind a 15-20 margin in the half to outpoint the previously-undefeated Mormons, 40-27, in the first game of the evening. CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—One more winner and Jack Westrope, little Montana boy with the big hands, will become the first American jockey in 5 years to ride 300 winning mounts in one year. He is 16, weighs only 92 pounds, and is pug-nosed and freckled. It is necessary to go all the way back to 1908 to find an American jockey who has ridden more winners than Westrope in one year. In that year, V. Powers rode 324 mounts to victory. Since 1900 only two jockeys have won more than 300 races in one year. Walter Miller, a New Yorker now living in Chicago, set the present record by riding past the winning post first 388 times in 1906. BREAKFASTERS ENJOY ANNUAL HOLIDAY EVENT

Featured by a gay holiday spirit, the annual Christmas party and meeting was held by the Orange County Breakfast club this morning at James' cafe.

The Christmas message was brought by the Rev. Harry Evan Jwings, past president of the club and minister of the First Baptist church. He was introduced by Jerry Hall, program chairman.

The true spirit of Christmas is in doing things for other people, he speaker declared in pointing out that celebration of Christmas is the celebration of the birthday of the greatest man in history—Jesus Christ.

"Jesus," he said, "spent His life in consideration of others, to bring cheer to saddened hearts and to lift the loads from them. He had not planned His life along selfish lines, but did all He could for others, even to giving His life for others."

Help Others

"Christmas time is when we should think of others and rate them higher than ourselves. We say for others and to relieve the needy. At this time our best natures are released. Brotherly love, charity, faith and kindness should flow from our hearts, not only at this time but for 365 days each year."

Two new members were welcomed into the club at the meeting. Ralph Adams of the Broadway theater and Thomas Pickel, attorney. Refraining President Claude McDowell announced that installation of officers will take place at the meeting next Thursday morning.

Christmas carols were sung by W. M. Wells, Mrs. G. O. Goodwin, Miss Ruth LaLonde and Mrs. E. M. Waycott, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Blanche Jackelton. An impromptu number was presented by Betty Jean Coster, who sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Art Cannon.

Gifts for Officers

S. B. Kaufman, district attorney, made a presentation speech, and on behalf of club members, presented Claude McDowell, retiring president, with a set of book ends and a double pen desk set. Kaufman outlined the activities of the club under McDowell's presidency, complimenting the club for its activities in supplying food and glasses for needy children.

While all members of the club and their wives and guests were presented with gifts, assisted by Santa Claus, special gifts were given to Secretary Fred Schweitzer and Art Cannon. The type of gifts given members caused considerable hilarity.

Members of the club joined in signing a Christmas letter addressed to Dave Wettlin, former president of the club.

Earl Morrow invited club members to attend a Christmas party being given for crippled children of Orange county at the Anaheim Elks clubhouse tomorrow at 1:30 p. m., sponsored by the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County and the Anaheim Elks club.

20-30 CLUB TOLD OF BANK MEASURE

FULLERTON, Dec. 21.—Plans were made last night for a Christmas party, combined with installation of officers, for the next meeting of the 20-30 club at McFarland's cafe December 27.

The program included a talk by Glen Gossitt on "The Banking Bill of 1933." Harry Smith will be speaker at the meeting December 27.

National Guard Members Enjoy Christmas Party

More than 80 members of Santa Ana National Guard, Company L and Headquarters company, with their guests, were entertained at a Christmas party Tuesday night. Mrs. John Tessmann, instructor of astronomy at the Junior college, was the featured speaker, telling of her thrilling experiences at the outbreak of the World war. She took the place of Capt. Don Wilkie, scheduled to speak but who was unable to do so because of business in Hollywood.

Mrs. Tessmann told how she was the only woman on the staff at the famous astronomical observatory in Potsdam, Germany, and the difficulties she experienced in making her way to the Dutch frontier and from Holland to England immediately after the outbreak of hostilities.

Floyd Stewart, local magician, entertained for a half hour with baffling magical tricks.

A "bean feed," including serving of pie and coffee, concluded the evening's entertainment.

YULE PARTY AND ELECTION HELD BY GAS COMPANY CLUB

Voted by the participants as one of the most successful events held by the organization in many years was the annual Christmas party of the Southern Counties Gas Company Efficiency Club held last night at James cafe and attended by close to 150 members and their guests. Among the honor guests were Fred Merker, district manager; Charles E. Rutledge, former district manager; W. B. Williams, local banker and a director of the gas company; and Attorney L. A. West.

James A. Merigold, president of the club, who presided over the program, was re-elected as head of the organization. L. M. Crowder was elected vice president. The office of secretary went to Paul King and that of treasurer to Fred Miller.

G. D. Bancroft and James Merigold were chosen to represent the district union of the Southern Counties Association in matters of collective bargaining.

Brief addresses were made by Fred Merker, W. B. Williams, L. A. West, and Charles E. Rutledge, who as honor guests were seated at the speaker's table.

Following the dinner, the members and their guests repaired to the Broadway theater where they attended the showing "The World Changes" with Paul Muni in the principal role.

SECOND SENTENCE OF LIFE IMPOSED

WELLINGTON, Kan., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Jack Wisdom, already under life sentence, was spirited here today from the state prison and given another life term on a plea of guilty to the murder of Mrs. Harry Pritchard.

The first sentence was imposed at Wichita for the death of Pritchard and the action was taken here to end the question of jurisdiction resulting from doubt as to the exact spot where the Pritchards were killed.

As at his brief trial in Wichita, Wisdom was rushed here secretly to prevent any possibility of mob action. He entered his plea of guilty and was on his way back from Lansing before persons outside the courtroom knew he was here.

BREAKFASTERS ENJOY ANNUAL HOLIDAY EVENT

Featured by a gay holiday spirit, the annual Christmas party and meeting was held by the Orange County Breakfast club this morning at James' cafe.

The Christmas message was brought by the Rev. Harry Evan Owens, past president of the club and minister of the First Baptist church. He was introduced by Jerry Hall, program chairman.

The true spirit of Christmas is in doing things for other people, the speaker declared in pointing out that celebration of Christmas is the celebration of the birthday of the greatest man in history—Jesus Christ.

"Jesus," he said, "spent His life in consideration of others, to bring cheer to saddened hearts and to lift the loads from them. He had not planned His life along selfish lines, but did all He could for others, even to giving His life for others."

Help Others
"Christmas time is when we should think of others and rather than higher than ourselves. We try for others and to relieve the needy. At this time our best natures are released. Brotherly love, charity, faith and kindness should flow from our hearts, not only at this time but for 365 days each year."

Two new members were welcomed into the club at the meeting, Ralph Adams of the Broadway theater and Thomas Pickert, attorney. Retiring President Claude McDowell announced that installation of officers will take place at the meeting next Thursday morning.

Christmas carols were sung by W. M. Wells, Mrs. G. O. Woodwin, Miss Ruth Lalonde and Mrs. E. M. Waycott, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Blanche Jackson. An impromptu number was presented by Betty Jean Coster, who sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Art Cannon.

Gifts for Officers
S. B. Kaufman, district attorney, made a presentation speech, and on behalf of club members, presented Claude McDowell, retiring president, with a set of book ends and a double pen desk set. Kaufman outlined the activities of the club under McDowell's presidency, complimenting the club for its activities in supplying food and glasses for needy children.

While all members of the club and their wives and guests were presented with gifts, assisted by Santa Claus, special gifts were given to Secretary Fred Schweitzer and Art Cannon. The type of gifts given members caused considerable hilarity.

Members of the club joined in signing a Christmas letter addressed to Dave Wetlin, former president of the club.

Earl Marrow invited club members to attend a Christmas party being given for crippled children of Orange County at the Anaheim Elks clubhouse tomorrow at 1:30 p. m., sponsored by the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County and the Anaheim Elks club.

20-30 CLUB TOLD OF BANK MEASURE

FULLERTON, Dec. 21.—Plans were made last night for a Christmas party, combined with installation of officers, for the next meeting of the 20-30 club at McFarland's cafe December 27.

The program included a talk by Glen Gossitt on "The Banking Bill of 1933." Harry Smith will be speaker at the meeting December 27.

National Guard Members Enjoy Christmas Party

More than 80 members of Santa Ana National Guard, Company L and Headquarters company, with their guests, were entertained at a Christmas party Tuesday night.

Mrs. John Tessmann, instructor of astronomy at the junior college, was the featured speaker, telling of her thrilling experiences at the outbreak of the World war. She took the place of Capt. Don Wilkie, scheduled to speak but who was unable to do so because of business in Hollywood.

Mrs. Tessmann told how she was the only woman on the staff at the famous astronomical observatory in Potsdam, Germany, and the difficulties she experienced in making her way to the Dutch frontier and from Holland to England immediately after the outbreak of hostilities.

Floyd Stewart, local magician, entertained for a half hour with baffling magical tricks.

A "bean feed," including serving of pie and coffee, concluded the evening's entertainment.

YULE PARTY AND ELECTION HELD BY GAS COMPANY CLUB

Voted by the participants as one of the most successful events held by the organization in many years was the annual Christmas party of the Southern Counties Gas Company Efficiency Club held last night at James' cafe and attended by close to 150 members and their guests. Among the honor guests were Fred Merker, district manager; Charles E. Rutledge, former district manager; W. B. Williams, local banker and a director of the gas company; and Attorney L. A. West.

James A. Merigold, president of the club, who presided over the program, was re-elected as head of the organization. L. M. Crowder was elected vice president. The office of secretary went to Fred King and that of treasurer to Fred Miller.

G. D. Bancroft and James Merigold were chosen to represent the district union of the Southern Counties Association in matters of collective bargaining, employee insurance, and affairs affecting the welfare of the working force.

Brief addresses were made by Fred Merker, W. B. Williams, L. A. West, and Charles E. Rutledge, who as honor guests were seated at the speaker's table.

Following the dinner, the members and their guests repaired to the Broadway theater where they attended the showing "The World Changes" with Paul Muni in the principal role.

A large Christmas tree was the center of decoration in the dining room where the children were given their treat. Mrs. Rude and Worthy Patron Ray Hyde were presented lovely silver centerpieces.

Insurance Firm
Dividend Action
Reflects Strength

The board of directors of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company has voted to continue the present dividend scale for the year 1934. It was announced here today by Rolla Hays of the local agency. It was also voted to authorize interest on trust funds left with the company and on dividends left on deposit, at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent for the coming year, Hays said.

This decision followed a careful analysis of the strength and earnings of the company by its officers and by the finance committee of the directors, according to the announcement.

26 YEARS OF
HARBOR EFFORT
GETS RESULTS

One of the happiest men in Orange county today following victory of the harbor bond issue was Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach, who has been talking and working for the development of Orange county's harbor for the past 26 years.

It has been an exceptional meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce during that time in which Wallace did not make a report as chairman of the body's harbor committee.

The present development of Orange county's harbor was first undertaken in March, 1907, when nine Newport Beach men gathered together and formed the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The slogan of the organization was "The development of Newport Harbor."

Those present were W. W. Wilson, president; F. W. Beckwith, J. W. Stucklenbruck, John King, J. H. Sharps, L. S. Wilkinson, Joseph Ferguson, John McMillan and Lew H. Wallace, secretary.

Of these nine men who initiated the harbor movement, only two are still living—McMillan and Wallace. The others, after having worked for the harbor as long as they were able, have passed on.

The Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce was launched by each member putting $5 into the treasury to start operations.

The first business performed by the body was to have all members sign a note for $25, which was used to buy a team of mules and a wagon to take care of garbage disposal in the city.

The city of Newport Beach was organized on September 1, 1906 but there was no money in the treasury until November, 1907, except for licenses, and this money was used to pay the garbage collector's wages.

With federal recognition finally obtained, and federal appropriations promised for the harbor, Wallace today sees the early completion of a long cherished dream.

MATE USED HAMMER IN STRIKING HER,
WIFE COMPLAINS

Alleging that her husband struck her on the head with a hammer and threatened to kill her if she had him arrested, Mrs. Nellie Sterling filed suit in superior court yesterday seeking an interlocutory decree of divorce from Christopher Sterling.

For more than a year, according to the complaint, Sterling has treated his wife in a cruel and inhuman manner. She alleged that he was quarrelsome, abusive and insulting toward her. She also alleged that he frequently became intoxicated and at those times would curse and abuse her. She charged that last February 23, her husband became intoxicated in Orange and in a frenzy choked her and threatened her with death. He became so violent, she alleged, that it was necessary to have him arrested. On November 19, last, according to the complaint, Sterling accused her of attempting to poison him and threatened to kill her. On December 14, the day of the separation Sterling is alleged to have attacked his wife and struck her on the head with a hammer. On that occasion, she alleged, he declared he would kill her if she had him arrested. In spite of his threat it was necessary, according to the complaint, to have him taken into custody.

A Roosevelt Conference With Santa Claus

If "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall chance upon this picture they'll have a pretty good idea of what Santa might leave at their White House tree this Christmas. For when this photo was taken in a Washington toy shop, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was about some gift ideas for her grandchildren.

EXHIBIT OF WORK BY SANTA ANA ARTISTS ATTRACTS MANY TO MEMORIAL MUSEUM EVENT

By ELEANOR ELLIOTT

Indicating that Santa Ana is not only "art conscious" but is decidedly interested in the accomplishments of her own people, was the steady succession of visitors yesterday afternoon on the opening day of an exhibit of the work of Santa Ana artists held in the Bowers museum at North Main and Twentieth streets, opened formally to the public for the event.

The event, which is sponsored by Beulah May's work in the unusual Santa Ana Art association, which will continue afternoons through January 1, opened at 11 a. m. yesterday with a short program in which city officials participated and which was climaxed by the unveiling of the statue of Cabrillo by Ada May Sharpless in the courtyard.

At this ceremony short talks were made by Mayor Paul Wither, Miss Sharpless, Burr Shafter, president of the sponsoring organization; Terry Stephenson, chairman of the Bowers Memorial Museum committee; Dr. Margaret Baker of the school board, and Councilman E. G. Warner.

Two rooms of the museum are given over to the exhibit, which will remain open to the public until the first of the year, and includes oil paintings, water colors, prints and sculptures. The entire collection is consistently good and most interesting, and there are certain examples of outstanding merit whose excellence is apparent to the untrained but appreciative eye as fully as it would be to a capable and informed critic.

Pictures Entered
Among these might be cited one example of the work of practically every artist exhibiting. The deathless beauty of old age as exemplified in "The Old Senora," by Alice Underwood Fitch; the grace and abandon of Ada May Sharpless' sculptured figure, "Dancer," or the classic beauty of her "Temptation"; the splendid character delineation of the portrait bust of the late Robert Northcross, by Beulah May; the inherent poetry and character of Burr Shafter's "Liszt Etude"; Frances Edge's tender portrait of "The Grandmother"; the magical beauty of Jean Goodwin's decorative "Midsummer Night."

Continuing this list of outstanding studies by individual artists, there would be the breeze-filled sails of "Galleon," by S. Howland; the effective "White Rooster" of Iole Hamann; and her extremely modern study in decor, "Abstraction"; the sympathetic treatment of "First Born," by Frank Corburn; the ineffable blues in Elsie Spruance's "Blue Glass"; the fine atmospheric treatment of F. W. Chapman's desert studies, "The Prospector" and "Desert Rain"; the folded fabric of Robert Ames' "Brown Hills"; Katherine Knox's fine canvas, "South Lake," with its towering Sierras, and her intense feeling in flower groupings, especially her "Maiden Popples"; Robert Gilbert's effective modernism in "Man Descending Into Vault," and the unusual collection of prints by different artists.

Among the most outstanding of these prints is that of rare simplicity of line, offered by Douglas Cummings in "Black Head," while his "Wiener Turn" is eloquent of romantic ways in foreign lands.

JOHN MASEFIELD is Poet-Laureate of England. Ottawa was made the capital of Canada in 1858. Thomas A. Edison was born at MILAN, OHIO.

S. A. GIRL INJURED IN SKIING ACCIDENT

Injuries which their daughter, Miss Janet Briggs, sustained while skiing near Vienna were not as serious as expected by Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs, 644 North Broadway, it has been learned on receipt of more details from Miss Briggs.

The daughter of the Santa Ana family, Miss Janet Briggs, was in a ski jump while with a group of enthusiasts on the outskirts of Vienna, and examination showed two small bones in her foot were broken. She was in the hospital for a week immediately following the accident, and was forced to wear a cast on her foot and ankle for a month.

The injury interrupted Miss Briggs' plans to spend the Christmas holidays in the Australian Alps at an inn for skiing parties, but she is planning to join another similar party in March.

Miss Briggs is in Vienna attending a technical school, and has had a position in the private laboratory of Dr. Muller, famous Austrian scientist, ever since August. She will start working for her doctor's degree in mining engineering in January.

BIG OIL WELL LEGION SANTAS
COMES IN FOR TO HAVE ESCORT
SANTA ANAS TO PARK EVENT

A Santa Ana group of oil investors got a Christmas present yesterday when the Allen well, at Twentieth and Olive, came screaming in, one of the biggest oil wells in the townlet field at Huntington Beach.

The Allen well, after the swab had been run a couple of times, began to groan and rumble, and in a few seconds the great off gusher began pouring in the tanks. The owners claim a 2500-barrel well, with 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The well will be pinched back to 300 barrels until after January 1, when it will get its quota under the field allotment, probably about 300 to 400 barrels, which will come through a pinch-back hole smaller than an ordinary lead pencil in circumference.

Owners of the rich royalty under the well are O. L. Bolton, Wray Humphries, Ray Lambert, Tarver Montgomery and Ashby Turner, all of Santa Ana.

The Curley well on Fourteenth street did not get started to swabbing until last night. Huston brothers of this city, "Boxie and Ed" and Humphries and Bolton of Santa Ana own the royalty on this well, which looks like it would be up to the field average when it finally is brought in.

Curley and associates, owners of the well, are Long Beach oil field supply house operators. They were not selling their oil field supplies very fast during the lull in the oil game, so they decided to distribute candy and contribute to the spirit of the occasion will be escorted with honor to Birch park Sunday, at 1:30 p. m., in a parade which will leave the city hall to go to the park, where the Santa Ana Legion post will entertain children of the city at a Christmas party, it was announced today.

Prior to the arrival of the Santa Claus, a clown from the Famous store will entertain the children from 1 until 1:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon, it was announced. The Santa Claus are those who have been entertaining children at the Montgomery Ward and Famous stores.

The Santa Clauses will be escorted to the park in a buggy. The Legion drum and bugle corps will lead the procession as it makes its way to the park.

Entertainment at the park will include Christmas carols and appropriate music by the Junior College Octette, furnished through the courtesy of Myrtle H. Martin, director.

Candy, nuts and apples will be distributed to the several thousand children expected to attend the event, which is in charge of George Kellogg and his committee.

be their own best customers and put their supplies in their own well. The well should be in by sunset today, another nice Christmas gift from the rich oil sands at Huntington Beach.

Eight et Forty Salon Celebrates With Gift Exchange

Each one laden with some delicious contribution to the dinner members of the recently organized Salon of the Eight et Forty, congregated Tuesday night in the home of their chapeau, Mrs. Kay Rasmussen, 1415 Louise street, for a joyous celebration of the season, beginning with the dinner hour.

Guests found the home a radiant expression of the Christmas theme, with small tables arranged amidst the evergreen and holly, for serving the dinner menu. Places were indicated by Christmas tree cookies made by Mrs. Rasmussen, led in green and with the traditional ornaments suggested by tiny colored candles. Each guest found her name traced across the base of the tree marking her place.

Very little business was transacted, the members devoting the evening to a social good time around the gaily garlanded tree. Prominent in the ornaments were red ribbons, and in these each member found the name of her "mystery partner" for the coming year. Thus each member will find her natal day, her wedding anniversary, and similar important dates in her life, remembered throughout the year by her unknown Eight et Forty Partner.

Other fruit of the Christmas tree included the pretty gifts which were exchanged in accordance with numbers drawn at a previous meeting.

Sharing the festive evening with Mrs. Rasmussen were Anne Leimer, Inez Halber, Blanche Yount, Alice Hebron, Ellen Reeves, Rose Mellot, Ida Ramirez, Catherine Stanton, Edna Franzen, Polly Curritt, May Benningsdorf and Gladys Young. The next meeting on January 16, will be a covered dish dinner in the Dr. P. K. Halber home, 226 North Olive street.

Club Members Exchange Gifts at Annual Affair

Holding their Christmas meeting Tuesday evening, Chat and Sew club members were guests in the home of Mrs. J. T. McInnis, 256 North Harwood street, Orange.

A decorated Christmas tree served as setting for a gift exchange. Mrs. E. C. Frevert, who scored high in a Christmas tree, was delegated to the privilege of distributing the many pretty wrapped gifts to the guests. Bouquets of cottons and glowing red tapers added to the holiday background.

Refreshments in keeping with a green and red theme were served. Holiday candies wrapped and tied in cellophane were favors.

Attending the meeting as a special guest was Mrs. Frances A. White of Long Beach, a member who is very seldom able to be present. Others sharing Mrs. McInnis' hospitality were Mesdames Wilbur Woods, John J. Vernon, Edwin Wescott, Harvey Emley, Oliver Wickersheim, Ruth W. Riggle, E. C. Frevert, Carl Pister, Enley Campbell, Ruth Smith, V. O. Estes, A. E. Moynagh, Earl Wood and John Powell, of Santa Ana and Orange.

Eight et Forty Salon Celebrates With Gift Exchange

Each one laden with some delicious contribution to the dinner menu, members of the recently organized Salon of the Eight et Forty, congregated Tuesday night in the home of their chapeau, Mrs. Kay Rasmussen, 1414 Louise street, for a joyous celebration of the season, beginning with the dinner hour.

Guests found the home a radiant expression of the Christmas theme, with small tables arranged amidst the evergreen and holly, for serving the dinner menu. Places were indicated by Christmas tree cookies made by Mrs. Rasmussen, iced in green and with the traditional ornaments suggested by tiny colored candles. Each guest found her name traced across the base of the tree marking her place.

Very little business was transacted, the members devoting the evening to a social good time around the gaily garlanded tree. Prominent in its ornaments were gilded walnut shells swaying from red ribbons, and in these each member found the name of her "mystery partner" for the coming year. Thus each member will find her natal day, her wedding anniversary, and similar important dates in her life, remembered throughout the year by her unknown Eight et Forty Partner.

Other fruit of the Christmas tree included the pretty gifts which were exchanged in accordance with numbers drawn at a previous meeting.

Sharing the festive evening with Mrs. Rasmussen were Anne Leimer, Inez Haiber, Blanche Yount, Alice Heblson, Ellen Reeves, Rose Melott, Ida Ramirez, Catherine Stanton, Edna Franzen, Polly Currutt, May Benningsdorf and Gladys Young. The next meeting on January 16, will be a covered dish dinner in the Dr. F. K. Haiber home, 926 North Olive street.

Club Members Exchange Gifts at Annual Affair

Holding their Christmas meeting Tuesday evening, Chat and Sew club members were guests in the home of Mrs. J. T. McNis, 256 North Woodward street, Orange.

A decorated Christmas tree served as setting for a gift exchange. Mrs. E. C. Brewster, who scored high in a clever contest, was delegated as Mrs. Santa Claus, with the privilege of distributing the many prettily wrapped gifts to the guests. Bouquets of cottons and glowing red tapers above the fireplace added to the holiday background.

Refreshments in keeping with a green and red theme were served. Holiday candies wrapped and tied in cellophane were favors.

Attending the meeting as a special guest was Mrs. Frances A. White of Long Beach, a member who is very seldom able to be present. Others sharing Mrs. McNis' hospitality were Mesdames Wilbur Woods, John J. Vernon, Edwin Wescott, Harvey Emley, Oliver Wickersheim, Ruth W. Riggle, E. C. Frevert, Carl Pister, Ensey Campbell, Ruth Smith, W. O. Estes, A. E. Moynagh, Earl Wood and John Powell, of Santa Ana and Orange.

WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME

Late Bromfield Book Is Reviewed for Ebell Section

Presenting a general synopsis and an analysis of "The Farm," by Louis Bromfield, Mrs. N. A. Beals was given prominent place on Tuesday afternoon's program for Ebell First Book Review section. Section members met in the T. E. Stephenson home, 1522 North Broadway, where Mrs. Stephenson, Mrs. Robert Northcross and Mrs. Ralph Smedley received them as hostesses.

The home lends itself admirably to the traditional Yule decor. Most in wreaths and tree, and J. B. Stephenson, forester in the mountain district beyond San Diego, had sent unusually lovely evergreens for the season. The tree was beautifully decorated, and while the theme of red and green was uppermost in the living room, red and silver prevailed in the dining room. Mrs. Fred Rowland, assistant leader, presided at the business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Loyal King, leader. Very little business was transacted, however, for the interest of Mrs. Beals' review vied with that of the social hour in entertaining features.

Mrs. E. M. Nealey and Miss Rosa Boyd presided at the tea table in the dining room. The table was quite lovely, with a gleaming white tree soaring above a mound of holly, crimson candles in silver candlesticks and festoons of greenery.

Guests of the section were Miss Clara Morley, Orange County Forum representative, Miss Boyd Joplin and Mrs. Edmund West.

TAILORED SIMPLICITY
CREATES CHIC
PATTERN 1635
BY ANNE ADAMS

The new tailored mode adopts simplicity in a delightful way. That's why this frock is such an overwhelming success! Nothing could be more youthful nor more effective than the close-to-the-neck collar, the interesting sleeve line with fullness achieved through a slightly lower armhole, and the lower seam with snappy pleat to animate the skirt. The sketch shows the collar omitted. We'd recommend a sheer wool, mossy crepe, faille or bengaline—and the frock would be smartly correct for all occasions.

Pattern 1635 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 2 1/2 yards 64 inch fabric and 7-8 yard 39 inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mrs. Anita Willets-Burnham and her family most assuredly can be counted among the truly remarkable travelers. They started out with nothing much but determination, good will, and an ambition to see places and things that was limited only by the earth's confines. On this they managed to see Europe and then to circumnavigate the globe, to live in many countries, to enjoy themselves thoroughly and to enrich their lives in the pleasantest fashion imaginable and at a trifling expense. In "Round the World on a Penny," Mrs. Burnham tells the story of their gypsy-life wanderings. It is a hilarious book richly illustrated with the amusing drawings of the entire Burnham tribe.

According to a French newspaper, never has Art been pursued so furiously on the Left Bank as during the past month or so. Perhaps this is because of the stay on that side of the Seine of the Burnham family. Mr. Burnham, a one-time staid business man is now writing for a mid-western daily about the experiences of the family on their tribal trip around the world. The news is that the family is engaged in pursuing one or another of all the known Arts and Sciences. But the hardest and most ferocious pursuing is being done by Mrs. Burnham, who paints a picture every day and still has time to tell about it.

"Round the World on a Penny" is an exciting tale of a marvelous trip told with plenty of light touches and a generous helping of illustrative sketches, with all the members of the family contributing.

In "Great Men of Science" Philip Lenard tells of scientific progress through biographies. He tells vividly and with a sure sense of values of the lives and work of more than fifty outstanding scientists of all nationalities, each of whom has contributed some new idea of major scientific importance. The period covered stretches over some two thousand, five hundred years from Pythagoras of Samos to Friedrich Hasenrohr. Among the men discussed are Euclid, Copernicus, Kepler, Pascal, Descartes, and many others.

Lenard presents these great men of science in such a way that they become living figures. Their tasks and successes appear as a part of an organic structure, not simply a record of past times. It is not often that one who, like Professor Lenard, has won for himself an assured place in the history of science undertakes a systematic appreciation of the work of his predecessors. Of these studies the reader will find a vivid sympathy, a generous enthusiasm, and an illuminating criticism which brings out in lively fashion both the personality and the scientific contribution.

Hosts Plan Enjoyable Holiday Dinner for Store Employees

That friendly hospitality which the season seems to inspire, was manifest Tuesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Herschler, 1815 North Flower street, where the hosts entertained Mr. Herschler's employees at a turkey dinner and evening party.

Small tables arranged with white linens and flaming Christmas candles, had the added decoration of gay favors at each place. The dinner menu stressed the holiday colors, especially in the salad and dessert courses.

An interval of games with prizes for winners was followed by a gift exchange to which each guest contributed a small present to be drawn by numbers. The young men of the party had a special gift for their host, while Mr. Herschler in turn presented his annual Christmas gifts to all employees of "Joe's Grocery."

Yuletide Party Given As Compliment to Recent Bride

Complimenting a Thanksgiving bride at a Christmas party, Mrs. W. R. Waldren achieved an especially joyous holiday atmosphere this week in her home, 824 Hickory street, at an evening party and gift shower for Mrs. Ernest F. Peters, formerly Miss Helen Blanchard of Orange.

Sprays of cotoneaster and flaming poinsettias gave expression to the Christmas idea and the game of progressive hearts suggested the pretty wedding of the honor guest on Thanksgiving day. Prizes were awarded Miss Velma Witt and Miss Evelyn Boese, holders of high and low scores in the game. Those who did not play hearts devoted their time to hemming linen towels which later were presented Mrs. Peters.

Arrival of the "Honey-moon Express" created a diversion when Master Billy Waldren, son of the hostess, entered the room with a load of lovely miscellaneous gifts for Mrs. Peters from her assembled friends. After all had been examined and admired, card tables were arranged with white linens, central bouquets of wee red crystals and gay poinsettia nut cups for serving a cranberry salad and water followed by a delectable course of angel food cake with whipped cream and coffee.

Mrs. Waldren had asked to share the pleasant evening with Mrs. Peters, Mesdames Ella Ely, Ray E. Hucksfeldt, Evelyn Pearson, Oral Whisenand, Robert Cole, the Misses Mabel Cole, Evelyn Boese and Loyce Waldren, Santa Ana; Mrs. Royce Edson, Tustin; Mrs. Edith Scott, Mrs. Ida Barker, Anaheim; Mrs. Robert Blanchard, Mrs. H. MAYOR WATSON ISSUES APPEAL FOR RESIDENTS TO AID NEEDY FAMILIES OF CITY WITH FOOD

ORANGE, Dec. 21.—Mayor Clyde E. Watson declared today that in an appeal for contributions to welfare work, people in general do not know the real need which exists in the city and that in many cases residents of the same block are unaware that need exists in the homes of their neighbors.

Mayor Watson urges that all persons who are able to do so, contribute what they can in the way of non-perishable foodstuffs to the welfare work under the supervision of the Community Welfare board the store on Olive street, so that enough food may be distributed not alone for Christmas day but for a period of time following.

The welfare board, Watson states, is in close contact with people of the city who need temporary aid and such information is kept in confidence. Many persons in real need have small homes for which they were paying, Newton pointed out, and have saved their money in this way for a period of years. Under present conditions they have been unable to realize anything on this type of saving. Watson said that it is often stated that if people had saved their money when they made it, they would not be in want and he cited the above mentioned facts to show how persons had saved and yet were unable at the present time to care for their families.

The CWA has relieved the need in the city to some extent, Watson said, but many still are unemployed as the quotas are filled. However, as more projects are approved later on larger quotas will be filled from lists now on file. If it were not for the CWA, the situation would be unbearable, Watson said.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

"Let good old Santa have his snooze," said Goldy, "but no time we'll lose. While he's asleep, we'll finish up some little odds and ends."

"He'll fly away ere very long and I don't think we'll get in wrong if we brush up his reindeer, 'cause on them a lot depends."

"You're right," said Scouty. "They pull him, and when out through the sky they skim, I'm sure he'll want them looking neat. Let's find them, right away."

Just then an elf came up and said, "Why don't you all help me, instead? There are some things I'd like to finish wrapping up today."

Wee Windy shouted, "Sure we will. We'll gladly stick with you until all of the toys are wrapped and ready for ol' Santa's trip."

"Then we will do the best we can to fix up Toyland, epic and span. 'Twill mean a lot of clean-up work, but not one thing we'll skip."

And so the Tinies worked away. 'Course, packing toys was just like play. A lot of elves chipped in and helped, and soon the work was done.

"Well, there we are!" said Goldy. "Gee, the place is neat as it can be. We've done a lot for Santa Claus, and had a lot of fun."

Then to the reindeer shed

IMPORTANCE OF TOURISTS TO STATE CITED IN BEACH TALK; MINISTER NAMED CLUB HEAD

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 21.—Even during the depression period, tourists have brought into California millions of dollars of new money, it was stated by Charles A. Horroworth, field secretary to the All-Year Club of Southern California, as he spoke before the Newport Harbor Service club yesterday at the Legion hut.

Horroworth pointed to the harbor campaign brought to a successful close by the voters of Orange county Tuesday when they approved a bond issue of $400,000 to be supplemented by approximately $1,194,000 federal funds for the improvement of Orange county harbor at Newport Bay, stating that the harbor will be one of the attractions for tourists.

Since 1922, when the All-Year club was organized, the tourist industry has developed from fourth to third place as a means of bringing new money into Southern California, he said. Manufacturing, including the making of movie films and all its ramifications, has forged into first place, from third. Petroleum and mining rank second and agriculture fourth, according to the latest statistics.

The average amount spent by tourists per day is $6.05, and last year they paid into the state gasoline tax fund more than $2,000,000, he said.

During a short business session, upon the withdrawal by Judge W. A. Leonard of his name as a candidate for president of the club, the Rev. Russell C. Stroup was elected to the position for the ensuing six months.

Rolland Upton, superintendent of Buena Park schools, showed films of Yosemite National park in summer and winter seasons, with the new machine which has been installed in the auditorium. Reports on the welfare work were favorable and it was decided that distribution of the donations will be in charge of the teachers.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Pauline Henderson in the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Rayburn. Roll call was taken, with Miss Lurline Trundy, first grade teacher, awarded the banner for attendance. Miss Katherine Smith, program chairman, presented a musical program. IMPORTANCE OF TOURISTS TO STATE CITED IN BEACH TALK; MINISTER NAMED CLUB HEAD

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 21.—Even during the depression period, tourists have brought into California millions of dollars of new money, it was stated by Charles A. Horowitz, field secretary to the All-Year Club of Southern California, as he spoke before the Newport Harbor Service club yesterday at the Legion hut.

Horowitz pointed to the harbor campaign brought to a successful close by the voters of Orange county Tuesday when they approved a bond issue of $640,000 to be supplemented by approximately $1,154,000 federal funds for the improvement of Orange county harbor at Newport bay, stating that the harbor will be one of the attractions for tourists.

Since 1922, when the All-Year club was organized, the tourist industry has developed from fourth to third place as a means of bringing new money into Southern California, he said. Manufacturing, including the making of movie films and all its ramifications, has forged into first place, from third. Petroleum and mining rank second and agriculture fourth, according to the latest statistics.

The average amount spent by tourists per day is $6.05, and last year they paid into the state gasoline tax fund more than $2,000,000, he said.

During a short business session, upon the withdrawal of Judge W. A. Leonard of his name as a candidate for president of the club, the Rev. Russell C. Stroup was elected to the position for the ensuing six months.

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 21.—George Burritt Dunham sr., president of the board of education, controlling both the elementary and high school districts, has sent his resignation to County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkins to take effect the first of the new year.

A series of conferences is being held with county and state authorities looking to the consummation of such a project.

CONSERVING TRUST FUNDS

The late Julius Rosenwald contributed an article to the Atlantic Monthly shortly before his death on creating endowments. He was very much opposed to endowments for anything. He pointed out that none of the great endowments of the middle ages has been conserved. They have been dissipated or confiscated. He himself has provided that all his benefactions shall be spent within a period of 25 years. Senator Couzens has adopted the same principle in providing funds for a work to rehabilitate ailing and crippled children.

The wisdom of such a course has gained much support during the past few years. Scores of endowments known to all of us have passed out during the past few years. In part it was due to unwise investments of those in control of funds; and in part due to the corrupt and dumb policies of banking institutions which were the custodian of these funds. Private colleges all over the country have been on the edge of disaster, if disaster has not really overtaken them, because of these two factors.

There has been a scandalous negligence in some quarters in guarding these funds. Trustees have been either too complacent or they have manipulated these funds to further projects in which they themselves were interested. They have not watched these funds with the same interest that they have watched their own. They have been invested in projects for which endowments and trust funds were never designed.

From now on, rich benefactors will be inclined to follow the plan adopted by Mr. Rosenwald and Senator Couzens of supervising their own benefactions, or creating a terminus for them within a limited period of years. Most of the Rockefeller Foundations, we believe, are working on that principle. It will be better all around if each generation provides for its own needs. And if private benefactions are not equal to the task, the State will have to do it, as it is doing through state hospitals, state universities, and other public welfare institutions.

RADICAL SONS OF CONSERVATIVE FATHERS

The report that the son of Thomas W. Lamont addressed a mass meeting of the Friends of the Soviet Union recently, extolling the virtues of the Communist regime, suggests that many other sons of rich conservatives have gone radical. Former Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who was one of the most reactionary members of the Senate in his time, has a son who has served on a picket line of strikers. Conservatives less eminent have been blessed with sons of a like kind. Some, of course, would say cursed with them.

However, it is a good sign in American life. If the children of privilege are ready to come down and share the lot of their less fortunate fellowmen, they deserve praise and admiration. It is quite natural that a "down-and-out" should be a rebel against the existing order. But when one "born to the purple" is willing to share the burdens of the disinherited, he certainly cannot be accused of selfishness.

The elder Roosevelt, Theodore, had that virtue. President Roosevelt and his wife, also a Roosevelt, also have that virtue. They are examples to the recently arrived rich, who are so apt to be hard boiled, that noblesse oblige,—that privilege entails responsibility,—is still a high virtue. And the fine thing about it all is that so many conservative fathers have taken pride in the individuality and the independence of their radical sons. And not infrequently, these sons have had a very salutary influence in moderating the uncompromising conservatism of their fathers. There is still hope for the future of society when such leaven is working.

BEFORE AND AFTER REPEAL

Every day one reads of more liberalization for liquor sellers and more arrests for drunkenness and accidents from drunken drivers. The greater freedom for the liquor sellers is always in the interest of "cutting down the bootlegger."

It is amazing how desperate the government is in coming to cut out liquor smuggling. Not to mention the revenue cutters in the service, but naval vessels are to be commandeered for this work. Those who were in earnest for the enforcement of the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act, urged various administrations to show more activity, but would they use the navy? By no means. It would be undignified, don't you know?

What makes this difference? Well, the truth is that the same people, who were unfavorable to the enforcement of the law during the prohibition days, are favorable to the enforcement of law against the smugglers and bootleggers now. They favored violations before, and they favor enforcement now, for the same and identical reason—to make a profit out of the liquor traffic. They wanted to break down the 18th amendment, through the breakdown of public sentiment, and get it repealed, so that they could manufacture liquor unmolested by the law.

Having accomplished this end, through the greatest organized propaganda that was ever put on in this country by one single traffic, they now want to enforce the law against the smuggler and the bootlegger, so that competition with themselves will be avoided. In other words, the very men who encouraged them in their law violation they now are against. Officials and politicians who were with them, in their attitude of winking and conniving and in encouraging law violators, are now holding up their hands in horror at the terrible condition of affairs, and urging that now we must enforce the law, so that the legitimate liquor seller shall have a chance.

By the same token, they urge that government taxes shall be reduced, so that this same liquor manufacturer and seller shall have a bigger chance. They further urge the liberalization of the law, so that they can sell it everywhere; so that this same liquor manufacturer and seller can have a chance.

Those of us who have been thinking in the past years in terms of the chance for the ones who are being exploited, whether by legal or illegal alcohol, cannot help looking at the whole transaction, as it is admitted that the consumption of liquor is daily increasing, with something of an ironic smile, as sad and tragic as the situation is.

Can you remember but a few short months ago that they were declaring that we should repeal the 18th amendment so as to "reduce intemperance, drunkenness, drunken driving and liquor consumption"? In the language of the street, "Yeah?"

SENATOR FESS IS STILL TRUE TO TYPE

Senator Fess of Ohio made an address at a Y. M. C. A. meeting recently, in which he took occasion to attack administration policies of relief and the recovery program generally. He called for a more orderly program of conservative legislation.

There is nothing novel in the Senator's position. We think highly of the character and the ability of the Senator, but we are inclined to believe that the description given of another eminent statesman of our country some years ago fits him exactly. This other statesman was described as "the most brilliant mind the eighteenth century has produced." The Senator was one of the leaders of his party for the last three presidential terms. The legislation he favors was written on the statute books. But, somehow, it led the country to the edge of the abyss.

Doubtless, the Senator would have continued along the same line now were his party in power, and probably with the same disastrous consequences. There is a "new deal" on, and the Senator cannot fathom it. The eighteenth century mind cannot fathom the twentieth century needs. The time has come for the Senator to pass off the stage in favor of those who understand the times. And there is every evidence at the present time that the people of Ohio will re-evaluate the estimable Fess to the political limbo of antiquated statesmen who refused to see, or could not understand, the new spirit of the times. The people's opportunity will come next November.

Lindberghs Again

Washington Star

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying from Africa to South America, had an unseen audience of millions, but among the multitude that "watched" their crossing of the South Atlantic there were but few who doubted their ability to complete the trip. The time has passed when their admirers tremble for them as they set forth on some difficult journey. They have performed so many seeming miracles that the public no longer has any doubt of their capacity.

But when readers of the news of their exploits review their career it becomes apparent that the present sense of confidence is a development based on a psychological trait in their character as a team. Before Colonel Lindbergh's celebrated flight from New York to Paris, May 20 and 21, 1927, he was called a "flying fool." The epithet, perhaps, was inaccurate, and yet it had to be lived down. The point is that no one today would dare apply such a title to him. In more than six years of travel by plane he has earned the sobriquet of the world's most scientific aeronaut.

Other men and women have done spectacular stunts in the clouds, but the Lindberghs have made a different contribution to the progress of aviation. It has been their choice to demonstrate the efficiency of common sense in flying. They have practiced caution and patience. Their method has been that of careful planning and rigid adherence to rational procedure. They have not aspired to break records for the sake of breaking them. They have not attempted to thrill the mob by theatrical gymnastics. They have disciplined themselves, governed their ambitions, guarded their enthusiasms, controlled their thought and their utterance. They have been conservative. And that is the reason for the universal confidence which people have in them.

However, there has been no diminution of appreciation for their courage. Their latest feat required bravery of the authentic type, and no one questions the fact. But neither does any one doubt that their victories are attained by the exercise of reason. Thus it is that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are respected as well as admired. It has been their purpose to supplement the growing body of accurate knowledge of the practical science of air travel, and the public understands that they do great things because they know how to do them. They are not famous simply because they take chances.

The Norse Sons Have It

San Francisco Chronicle

Discovery near Lake Winnipeg in Canada of a Norse rune stone dated in the fourteenth century has revived dispute over Scandinavian claims that Norsemen not only discovered America long before Columbus but penetrated far into the continent with expeditions and settlements.

This theory had its rise in discovery of a similar rune stone by a Minnesota farmer some thirty years ago. This discovery was hooted by skeptics as a fake.

Much plausible evidence has been presented by both supporters and opponents of the Nordic claim as well as by others who uphold the theory that Asians preceded any Europeans in American discovery, this apart from evidence that the American Indians did not spring from the soil but came by way of Bering straits.

The controversy appeared to have subsided for the time being, but the Canadian discovery has added fresh fuel to the flames. But no matter who found Minnesota a perusal of the city directories will leave no doubt as to who got it.

Now That Starts Again!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

CONFESSION OF IGNORANCE

I can see why Columbus was eager
To sail to America's strand.
Though his knowledge was triflingly meager
Of where he was going to land.
It was gold that the brave captain wanted,
Being galled like you and like me,
And his daydreams were constantly haunted

With thoughts of it, over the sea.
I can see why the Pilgrims departed
From a land where they'd had a rough time,
Over seas that were wholly uncharted
To a chilling and rigorous climate.
But England, it seems, didn't need 'em,
So they had an incentive to roam;
They yearned for the blessings of freedom
Which were not to be had back at home.

But why daring men should aspire
To leave this old well padded earth
And go soaring up higher and higher
From the planet that gave them their birth,
And nothing on which they could land,
And nothing on which they could land,
Well knowing they never could stay there,
Is a thing I cannot understand.

Far be it from me, folks, to censure
The mer who, far braver than I,
Forever are seeking adventure
In the farthest heights of the sky.
But they only can flutter about there;
There is nothing to hear or to see,
And why they should want to go out there
Has been always a puzzle to me.

In fact he happened to have quite a good many copies with him, and I bawled one after the lecture. I've been looking it over and it seems one of the best essentials is to implant in the child's formative mind a strong impression of the dignity of work of any kind from the lowliest labor to the loftiest endeavors, and I think we awt to give Benny a little talk on the subject, she said.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

LITERACY IS NOT ENOUGH

For a long while now the professional educators have been laying the foundation for a nation-wide adult education movement. And for a long while their pleas have been listened to tolerantly by the layman as the advocacy of another social luxury to which we might profitably turn our attention after the urgent necessities of national recovery have been looked after.

I want today to insist that, since it is now obvious that national recovery and stabilization are impossible apart from a definite and permanent shortening of hours with the consequent widening of the margin of leisure for all, some bold and prompt moves in the field of adult education are imperative if the new leisure is not to be a blight instead of a blessing to the next 20 years of our national life.

We must not wait until the depression is over, for adult education is over a matter of extending to adults the formal training in the tools of learning, we might be able to wait, but the fact is adult education must be something different from the formal courses of the schools, and, for all our thinking about it to date, we do not yet know just what this adult education should be.

We know that literacy is not enough. Mere literacy is not the vital education upon which a valid democracy, operating under the leisure economy of the machine age, must depend. We might see to it that every man, woman and child in the United States could read, write, figure and use decent English and still be a grossly illiterate people. It is the illiteracy of the literate that may wreck us when the new economics gives us greater leisure.

It is political illiteracy, economic illiteracy, religious illiteracy, social illiteracy that stand like a wall between us and the realization of an increasingly rational and realistic social order.

The mere tools of learning are no guaranty of the character that we must develop to stand the demands of a larger leisure. We must have a continuous education of adult America that will more and more effectively help character to keep pace with the new powers and the new perils of this age of science and the machine. CHILD LABOR

The day that frees all children from factories and fields where they competed against grownmen and women for a daily wage, where they were used as slaves to serve the greed of soulless men, will be a Judgment Day with glory streaming from the skies. I hope I live to see it.

But I hope that I shall never live to see the day when children cease to be useful to themselves and to other people. It would be a crime to deprive them of work that taught them self support. Work is the salvation of mankind. Every child likes to work. Activity is the breath of his nostrils. As he grows older and stronger this activity and the energy that drives it, incline toward practical results. The child wants to do something that counts and he should be allowed to do so.

Some people think that selling newspapers is child labor. I do not. I believe that it is distinctly a boy's job if well regulated as to hours and amount. He loves to meet people and have a word with them. He delights in getting about from where he is to where he wants to be. He loves to shout at the top of his lungs. He needs to do that for his lungs sake. He wants to earn some money so he can save up for the skates he wants, for the wheel, or the books, or the trip he covets. He should be allowed to do just that.

Some folks object to letting the boys shine shoes. I would let them do it. They have the same liking for that job as the newsboys have for theirs. It is useful interesting work and brings valuable experiences to the lads who engage in it. Which reminds me, we were having trouble with a boy in the seventh grade. He was late, sometimes absent, usually cross. One afternoon I saw him out with his shine box and I immediately needed a shoe. I got a good one and I suggested that he come in every afternoon and shine up my shoes before he started on his rounds.

As he shined he talked. He told me he had to earn ten cents at least each day. That bought the milk for the baby sister. If he earned more that went toward a dish of greens or a piece of cheese for supper. There wasn't any father, just he and a mother who worked in a factory. Given a chance to do his shining they got on fine, he said. I wouldn't class him as a laborer.

Adolescent boys have tremendous energy stored in their bodies. Nature provided it for their growth and growth depends upon exercise. City lads have no chance to exercise. There is no job for any of them. If they worked they would be exploited, given no training, no chance to arrive at success and happiness. School is the place for them.

But as we make the schools, what are they need? If we put young men in school benches, give them nothing heavier than a book and pencil to handle, they will leave the school and take to the road in the hope of adventure. They need exercise and they must get it. Youth must be prepared to take up the work that age lays down. This is a national responsibility that must be faithfully and honestly discharged. Otherwise the abolition of child labor is going to leave us worse in the end.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.)

In other words, the very men who encouraged them in their law violation they now are against. Officials and politicians who were with them, in their attitude of winking and conniving and in encouraging law violators, are now holding up their hands in horror at the terrible condition of affairs, and urging that now we must enforce the law, so that the legitimate liquor seller shall have a chance.

By the same token, they urge that government taxes shall be reduced, so that this same liquor manufacturer and seller shall have a bigger chance. They further urge the liberalization of the law, so that they can sell it everywhere; so that this same liquor manufacturer and seller can have a chance.

Those of us who have been thinking in the past years in terms of the chance for the ones who are being exploited, whether by legal or illegal alcohol, cannot help looking at the whole transaction, as it is admitted that the consumption of liquor is daily increasing, with something of an ironic smile, as sad and tragic as the situation is.

Can you remember but a few short months ago that they were declaring that we should repeal the 18th amendment so as to "reduce intemperance, drunkenness, drunken driving and liquor consumption"? In the language of the street, "Yeah?"

SENATOR FESS IS STILL TRUE TO TYPE

Senator Fess of Ohio made an address at a Y. M. C. A. meeting recently, in which he took occasion to attack administration policies of relief and the recovery program generally. He called for a more orderly program of conservative legislation.

There is nothing novel in the Senator's position. We think highly of the character and the ability of the Senator, but we are inclined to believe that the description given of another eminent statesman of our country some years ago fits him exactly. This other statesman was described as "the most brilliant mind the eighteenth century has produced." The Senator was one of the leaders of his party for the last three presidential terms. The legislation he favors was written on the statute books. But, somehow, it led the country to the edge of the abyss.

Doubtless, the Senator would have continued along the same line now were his party in power, and probably with the same disastrous consequences. There is a "new deal" on, and the Senator cannot fathom it. The eighteenth century mind cannot fathom the twentieth century needs. The time has come for the Senator to pass off the stage in favor of those who understand the times. And there is every evidence at the present time that the people of Ohio will relegate the estimable Fess to the political limbo of antiquated statesmen who refused to see, or could not understand, the new spirit of the times. The people's opportunity will come next November.

Lindberghs Again

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying from Africa to South America, had an unseen audience of millions, but among the multitude that "watched" their crossing of the South Atlantic there were but few who doubted their ability to complete the trip. The time has passed when their admirers tremble for them as they set forth on some difficult journey. They have performed so many seeming miracles that the public no longer has any doubt of their capacity.

But when readers of the news of their exploits review their career it becomes apparent that the present sense of confidence is a development based on a psychological trait in their character as a team. Before Colonel Lindbergh's celebrated flight from New York to Paris, May 20 and 21, 1927, he was called a "flying fool." The epithet, perhaps, was inaccurate, and yet it had to be lived down. The point is that no one today would dare apply such a title to him. In more than six years of travel by plane he has earned the sobriquet of the world's most scientific aeronaut.

Other men and women have done spectacular stunts in the clouds, but the Lindberghs have made a different contribution to the progress of aviation. It has been their choice to demonstrate the efficiency of common sense in flying. They have practiced caution and patience. Their method has been that of careful planning and rigid adherence to rational procedure. They have not aspired to break records for the sake of breaking them. They have not attempted to thrill the mob by theatrical gymnastics. They have disciplined themselves, governed their ambitions, guarded their enthusiasms, controlled their thought and their utterance. They have been conservative. And that is the reason for the universal confidence which people have in them.

However, there has been no diminution of appreciation for their courage. Their latest feat required bravery of the authentic type, and no one questions the fact. But neither does any one doubt that their victories are attained by the exercise of reason. Thus it is that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are respected as well as admired. It has been their purpose to supplement the growing body of accurate knowledge of the practical science of air travel, and the public understands that they do great things because they know how to do them. They are not famous simply because they take chances.

The Norse Sons Have It

Discovery near Lake Winnipeg in Canada of a Norse rune stone dated in the fourteenth century has revived dispute over Scandinavian claims that Norsemen not only discovered America long before Columbus but penetrated far into the continent with expeditions and settlements.

This theory had its rise in discovery of a similar rune stone by a Minnesota farmer some thirty years ago. This discovery was hailed by skeptics as a fake.

Much plausible evidence has been presented by both supporters and opponents of the Nordic claim as well as by others who uphold the theory that Asians preceded any Europeans in American discovery, this apart from evidence that the American Indians did not spring from the soil but came by way of Bering straits.

The controversy appeared to have subsided for the time being, but the Canadian discovery has added fresh fuel to the flames. But no matter who found Minnesota a perusal of the city directories will leave no doubt as to who got it.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

CONFESSION OF IGNORANCE

I can see why Columbus was eager
To sail to America's strand,
Though his knowledge was frightfully meager
Of where he was going to land.
It was gold that the brave captain wanted,
Being galled like you and like me,
And his daydreams were constantly haunted

With thoughts of it, over the sea.
I can see why the Pilgrims departed
From a land where they'd had a rough time,
Over seas that were wholly uncharted
To a chilling and rigorous clime.
But England, it seems, didn't need 'em,
So they had an incentive to roam;
They yearned for the blessings of freedom
Which were not to be had back at home.

But why daring men should aspire
To leave this old well padded earth
And go soaring up higher and higher
From the planet that gave them their birth,
And nothing on which they could land,
And nothing on which they could land,
Well knowing they never could stay there,
Is a thing I cannot understand.

Far be it from me, folks, to censure
The men who, far braver than I,
Forever are seeking adventure
In the farthest heights of the sky.
But they only can flutter about there;
There is nothing to hear or to see,
And why they should want to go out there
Has been always a puzzle to me.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

LITERACY IS NOT ENOUGH

For a long while now the professional educators have been laying the foundation for a nation-wide adult education movement. And for a long while their pleas have been listened to tolerantly by the layman as the advocacy of another social luxury to which we might profitably turn our attention after the urgent necessities of national recovery have been looked after.

I want today to insist that, since it is now obvious that national recovery and stabilization are impossible apart from a definite and permanent shortening of hours with the consequent widening of the margin of leisure for all, some bold and prompt moves in the field of adult education are imperative if the new leisure is not to be a blight instead of a blessing to the next 20 years of our national life.

We dare not wait until the depression is over. If adult education were simply a matter of extending to adults the formal training in the tools of learning, we might be able to wait, but the fact is adult education must be something different from the formal courses of the schools, and, for all our thinking about it to date, we do not yet know just what this adult education should be. We know that literacy is not enough. Mere literacy is not the vital education upon which a valid democracy, operating under the leisure economy of the machine age, must depend. We might see it to that every man, woman and child in the United States could read, write, figure and use decent English and still be a grossly illiterate people. It is the illiteracy of the literate that may wreck us when the new economics gives us greater leisure.

It is political illiteracy, economic illiteracy, religious illiteracy, social illiteracy that stand like a wall between us and the realization of an increasingly rational and realistic social order.

The mere tools of learning are no guaranty of the character that we must develop to stand the demands of a larger leisure. We must have a continuous education of adult America that will move and more effectively help character to keep pace with the new powers and the new perils of this age of science and the machine. Our Children

By Angelo Patri

CHILD LABOR

The day that frees all children from factories and fields where they competed against grown men and women for a daily wage, where they were used as slaves to serve the greed of soulless men, will be a Judgment Day with glory streaming from the skies. I hope I live to see it.

But I hope that I shall never live to see the day when children cease to be useful to themselves and to other people. It would be a crime to deprive them of work that taught them industry, achievement and self support. Work is the salvation of mankind. Every child likes to work. Activity is the breath of his nostrils. As he grows older and stronger this activity and the energy that drives it, incline toward practical results. The child wants to do something that counts and he should be allowed to do so.

Some people think that selling newspapers is child labor. I do not. I believe that it is distinctly a boy's job if well regulated as to hours and amount. He loves to meet people and have a word with them. He delights in getting about from where he is to where he wants to be. He loves to shout at the top of his lungs. He needs to do that for his lungs' sake. He wants to earn some money so he can save up for the skates he wants, for the wheel, or the books, or the trip he covets. He should be allowed to do just that.

Some folks object to letting the boys shine shoes. I would let them do it. They have the same liking for that job as the newsboys have for theirs. It is useful interesting work and brings valuable experiences to the boys who engage in it. Which reminds me. We were having trouble with a boy in the seventh grade. He was late, sometimes absent, usually cross. One afternoon I saw him out with his shine box and I immediately needed a shine. I got a good one and I suggested that he come in every afternoon and shine up my shoes before he started on his rounds.

As he shined he talked. He told me he had to earn ten cents at least each day. That bought the milk for the baby sister. If he earned more that went toward a dish of greens or a piece of cheese for supper. There wasn't any father, just he and a mother who worked in a factory. Given a chance to do his shining they got on fine, he said. I wouldn't class him as a laborer.

Adolescent boys have tremendous energy stored in their bodies. Nature provided it for their growth and growth depends upon exercise. City lads have no chance to exercise. There is no job for any of them. If they worked they would be exploited, given no training, no chance to arrive at success and happiness. School is the place for them.

But are we making the schools such as they need? If we put young men in school benches, give them nothing heavier than a book and pencil to handle, they will leave the school and take to the road in the hope of adventure. They need exercise and they must get it. Youth must be prepared to take up the work that age lays down. This is a national responsibility that must be faithfully and honestly discharged. Otherwise the abolition of child labor is going to leave us worse in the end.
